NEW YORK, April 18.—A broad upward movement in prices which carried scores of issues up nearly 10 points was checked just before the close of today's market by a heavy realizing movement, which carried many issues down 1 to 8 points below earlier high levels, and sent a few slow last night's final quotations.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the selling movement although many large traders took profits to guard against the possibility of a disappointing Federal brokers' loan statement. Wall Street generally has been looking for a drop of $50,000,000 to $100,- 000,000 in loans.

Loans Down Only $2,000,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending April 17 were announced after the close of market by the Federal Reserve Board today as $5,425,- 000, representing a decrease of $2,000,000 over the total a week earlier.

Trading at closed moderate expansion in volume with several blocks of 5,000 to 10,000 shares changing hands in such issues as Bethlehem Steel, Yellow Coach, General Motors, Atlantic Refining, Pan American B. Standard Oil of New Jersey and New Haven, the two reaching new high points from its early high and low.

The report showed that loans for a new account decreased $3,000,- 000, but loans for account of out-of-town banks rose $21,000,000 and for account of others were $4,000,- 000 greater.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate of 5 per cent, it was announced after close of market.

Aircraft Glide Helps Decline.

A sudden drop from 111 to 103 1/2 United Aircraft, which has enjoyed a spectacular advance this week, was due to the late selling movement. Adams Express dropped from 731 to 710, American Express dropped 8 points from its early high and Commercial Solvents 5.

National Lead fell back 3 1/2 points on the announcement of President Cornish at the annual stockholders meeting that the stock was selling too high to purchase for offering to employees.

Commodity markets again pointed downward. Wheat sold off about 2 cents a bushel on March weather advances, and corn dropped about a cent a bushel for the same reason.

The recession in commodity futures also was influenced by the better crop outlook and the weakness of the Liverpool market.

Foreign exchanges were mixed.

German marks held steady. Steering held steady. Dutch guilders were strong and Spanish pesetas were weak, selling down to around

Call Money Easier.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, but dropped to 7 1/2 in the early afternoon, with a plentiful supply of funds available.

A further easing also was apparent in the time money market in which relatively little business has been transacted of late.

Wall street is convinced that the peak of the buying commercial demands has passed, and that money rates should work lower, barring a reumption of wild speculation for the advance in securities prices.

Expectations of record-breaking first quarter reports by the leading producers accelerated the demand for the steel stocks. Glass-Sheaf-field jumped 6 1/2 points and Bethlehem Steel moved up 4 to a new one-time high of 113 1/2. Republican Steel and Crucible each advanced about 3 points, closing about 2 points net higher. Bethlehem at the close sold at 113 1/2 for net gain of 1 1/2 points.

pelled him to sell it abroad at a loss, or must dump it on the domestic market and thus depress the domestic price.

Under the debenture plan, he could export the surplus, and if compelled to sell it abroad at $1 a bushel, would actually receive about $1.20, that sum representing the actual price plus the value of the debenture certificate.

There is a tariff on all the products to which the debenture plan would apply except cotton. For cotton, the plan provides for a debenture

TWO AMENDMENTS TO SMALL LOAN BILL DISAPPEAR

One of Them Returned After Copying Clerk Reports Discovery to Speaker Parker.

BOTH PROVISIONS VITAL TO MEASURE

Without Them, Act Would Have Been Worthless—Investigation in House Is Under Way.

CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—Forty-two per cent loan legislation which was the subject of a recent grand jury inquiry in Cole County, was the subject of another investigation by officers of the House yesterday when it was discovered that two important amendments adopted by the House had disappeared under mysterious circumstances. If the bill had been engrossed without the amendments and passed in that form, it would have been of no effect.

After Speaker Parker had begun an inquiry to determine the responsibility of one of the amendment-makers in his appearance in the files of the clerk's office as mysteriously as it had disappeared, The other has not been found, but it was possible to substitute another copy and the bill now appears to be in the shape it was originally engrossed.

The House ordered the engrossment of two small loan bills Monday, one a measure by Representative Hicks of Kansas City repealing outright the law permitting an interest charge of 42 per cent a year on loans of less than $300, and one by Representative Ballew of Livingston County reducing the legal interest rate on such loans to 24 per cent a year.

Clerk Discovers Omission.

After a bill is ordered engrossed, it is sent to the engrossing room of the House, where a clerk copies it in longhand, placing the amendments in their proper places and turning out a bill in proper form as amended.

When a clerk in the engrossing room yesterday morning reached the Ballew bill, he found a record of the adoption of several amendments, but discovered that one amendment, a complete new title for the bill, was not accompanying it. He reported the fact to Representative Bales of Shawnee County, who had been active on the floor in support of the bill, and Bales took steps to have a substitute for the new title prepared.

A few minutes later the clerk reported that one of the important amendments to the body of the bill was missing. This was an amendment offered by Representative Baird of Jasper County, and included provisions requiring minute annual reports from the small loan companies, and prohibiting salary buying companies from buying unearned titles.

Amendment Disappears.

With the disappearance of two amendments, Bales came to the conclusion that while one amendment might have been misplaced or lost, it was hardly probable that two would have been, and he reported the information to Speaker Parker, who immediately started an investigation. In the meantime steps were taken to have Baird prepare a copy of his amendment to be substituted for the original.

While Baird was at work on it, the report came from the engrossing room that the missing Baird amendment had been replaced in the file.

The title amendment was replaced with a new one and the engrossing clerk proceeded with the engrossment of the bill.

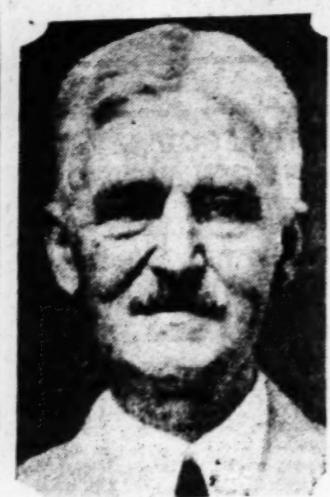

If the fact that the title had disappeared had not been discovered, the bill would have been worthless, the Constitution providing that the title must set out the essential purposes of the Bill. Amendments to the body of the measure had made necessary a new title to cover the new matter involved, and if the title as drawn for the bill originally had been engrossed instead of the new title, the measure would have been valuable.

Since the beginning of the session, Legislators there have been many rumors of graft in connection with attempts to repeal the small loan law, or to reduce the legal interest rate. It has been a general rumor among legislators that a fund of nearly $50,000 had been deposited in escrow in St. Louis to be paid to a small group of legislators if the present loan law was not changed by the Legislature. There has been no substantiation of the rumors, but they have persisted.

Recently the Cole County grand jury began an inquiry into the small loan legislation, but carried it no further than to hear one witness.

"Victim and Victor" Probable 1928 Pulitzer Prize Novel

DR. JOHN RATHBONE OLIVER.

Jury Verdict in Favor of Baltimore Criminologist's Work, Magazine Quotes Member as Disclosing.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 18.—Dr. John Rathbone Oliver has received the verdict of the jury of awards on the Pulitzer prize for the best novel of 1928 for "Victim and Victor." Dr. Richard Burton, chairman of the Pulitzer prize jury and former head of the English department at the University of Minnesota is reported to have disclosed last week in speaking at the University of "Types of Contemporary Literature," according to the April 13 issue of the Publishers' Weekly.

When reached on the long distance telephone at his home in Baltimore, Dr. Oliver said he was told about the award a week ago, although he was not supposed to know it officially. The book, he said, was published last November. He said he was happy to see it had received such recognition, as his main work is along criminological lines.

Dr. Burton, in announcing the award, said it could not be officially given out until May. He also decided that only the Socialistic tendencies of Upton Sinclair's "20th" kept that book from being a winner.

While the verdict of the jury of awards usually is regarded as final, there have been instances in which its selection has been disregarded by the advisory board of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, which has the last word in all such matters.

American Fiction.

"Dr. Burton in discussing American fiction today," says the magazine, "deplored the confusion that exists as to what is and what is not a novel, claiming that he has found readers who consider biography, autobiography, pathological analysis, travel books and even poetry as fiction."

"He cited an instance when a judge of the Pulitzer jury wanted to give the novel award to Stephen Vincent Benét's 'John Brown's Body,' which he pointed out was poetry."

Proposal Not New.

While the plan is now for the first time attracting general attention, it is not new. It was presented to the Senate Committee on Agriculture several years ago, and a bill embodying it was introduced in the Senate. It attracted little notice, because the equalization fee, which would be levied on the manufacturer, and that the cost would be borne by the same body of people, namely, the entire consuming public.

James W. Chilton, receiver for the defunct collection agency, said the losses from irregular operations probably would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, but could not be determined definitely because of inadequate records. Only $157 was left for creditors.

10-Year Fight for Equal Suffrage Is in Vain.

By the Associated Press.

ORLANDO, Fla., April 18.—With vigorous control methods already applied and with four companies of State troops ordered mobilized to reinforce quarantine, Florida officials were more confident today that they would be able to exterminate the Mediterranean fruit fly in the area now infested.

Discovery several days ago of the new pest in an area approximately 12 miles north and south and six miles east and west in Orange, Lake and Seminole counties caused the State Plant Board and Federal inspectors to take action.

His Present Office.

Between 1915 and 1917 he was psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins hospital and has since been chief medical officer of the supreme court in Baltimore. Dr. Oliver has also been professor of the history of medicine at the University of Maryland since 1927. He is engaged at present as psychiatrist and criminologist in private practice.

Among his works are: "The Good Shepherd," "The Six Pointed Cross in the Dusk," and "Fear."

According to L. H. Titterton, associate editor of the MacMillan Company who refused to confirm or deny the awards, "Victim and Victor," published by his company, deals with the troubles of a clergyman who is unfrocked by his bishop for drunkenness. His life thenceforward becomes a constant struggle between what he has been forced to do and what he would have liked to do. At last he runs a mission in the slums of a city and achieves success.

GERMANY REPORTED TO HAVE QUIT PARLEY TO FIX REPARATIONS

The allied offer of last Saturday—said to imply a present value to the creditor nation claims of about $10,000,000,000 and an eventual value of about $24,000,000,000. Annuities were understood to progress arithmetically from a figure between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 for 27 years, reverting then to about $400,000,000 for the 21st year.

The third set of figures was that offered as a counter-proposal by Dr. Schacht at yesterday's plenary session—a set which proffered annuities for 27 years only of $240,000,000, and which the Germans said they had no objection to.

To some it seemed to be a hopeless situation, with the disparity of the two opposing points of view too great to permit any reconciliation. It was said that if Dr. Schacht agreed to considerable increases in his offer he might find them repudiated at home. On the other hand reductions in the allied claims to bring them to the level of the note last Saturday was a most painful and laborious process and practically no further reduction could be looked for there.

Two events yesterday were thought to emphasize this. An American State Department note delivered to Owen D. Young, through the embassy here, was understood to refuse a reduction in the American claim of about $205,000,000 for occupation of the machine and Jugo-Slavia refused to lower its reparations claim of 1,700,000,000 marks (about $460,000,000). MRS. WILLEBRANDT DIRECTS SPARING USE OF JONES LAW

Orders U. S. Prosecutors to Employ It Only in 'Strong Cases Involving Commercialism.'

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 18.—An order to Federal District Attorneys to apply the Jones law only in prosecuting "strong cases involving commercialism" against prohibition law violators has been received from Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, in charge of prohibition enforcement cases.

The order, dated March 23, became public today and directed the common man to go to trial in order that it be given a fair test.

Letters containing the order were sent from Washington to all regional prohibition administrators and District Attorneys, bearing a notation to reply in code. The instructions follow:

"In order that this new legislation may be given a fair test, it is suggested that you use a wise discretion as to the character of cases in which you seek indictments for violations coming within its view. Now, I haven't got a dime. We lost money from the beginning, and when we got to the point where there was no chance to pull out of the hole, we quit."

Amount Turned in From City Firemen and Theaters Fails to Come Up to Committee's Expectation

3500 HOPED FOR;
BUT $2000 RECEIVED

Official Declines to Comment—Talk That He May Not Be Reappointed Public Safety Director.

It became known today that the Republican City Committee is disappointed in the amount of collections for its fund in the recent mayoralty campaign turned in by Director of Public Safety Brod as contributions from city firemen and persons interested in St. Louis theaters.

Brod, who has charge of the Fire Department, turned over to the committee, it is understood, an amount somewhat in excess of $2000. The committee had been hopeful that the 999 city firemen would contribute $5 each, or $4500, and that the theatrical interests would contribute about $4000.

Brod's department has supervision of theater buildings concerning their safety for the public.

Burton was 25 years old and a graduate of the Fayette (Mo.) Teachers College. He had been an instructor at the Herculaneum school for the last four years. Funeral services will be at his former home at Higbee, Mo.

Herculaneum is about 25 miles south of St. Louis.

$7000 DIAMOND BRACELET IS RUTH'S GIFT TO HIS BRIDE

His Adopted Daughter, Her Child, Mother and Two Brothers to Live With "Babe."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—"Babe" Ruth and his bride were at home today in their 11-room apartment at Riverside Drive and Eighty-eighth street. Two young girls will live with them, as well as Mrs. Ruth's mother and two brothers. Ruth pointed with pride to a pretty room with twin beds which had been prepared for Dorothy Ruth, his 8-year-old adopted daughter, and Julia Marshall Hodges, Mrs. Ruth's 12-year-old daughter.

A $7000 diamond bracelet was the "Babe's" wedding gift to his bride, the former Mrs. Claire Hodges.

Mrs. Ruth, a former actress who came from Athens, Ga., said she first met "Babe" in Washington in 1922 and that baseball is her favorite sport.

The Ruths, after their early morning marriage yesterday, entertained friends at their new home at a wedding breakfast of ham and eggs.

DENIES CARMEN GET MORE IN OTHER CITIES

Public Service Co. Reiterates Statement That Pay Here Is Higher Than Average.

To support the Public Service Co.'s statement that wages of street car conductors and motormen in St. Louis are higher than the average, which was denied in a letter yesterday to the company by officers of the Street Car Men's Union, a comparison of wage rates was given out today by Stanley Clarke, president of the street car company.

Following is the part of Clarke's statement giving the wage figures:

"The average maximum hourly wage paid to street car men in cities of more than 200,000 population is $1.10. The average maximum wage paid by the St. Louis companies which operate more than 200 miles of track is 57½ cents."

"The average wage paid to the members of 254 locals of the Street Car Men's National Union is 56 cents."

"The maximum wage which is earned by more than 90 per cent of our motormen and conductors is 67 cents. In only nine cities in the country are higher maximum wages paid than in St. Louis. In Baltimore, New York, Washington, Minneapolis, St. Paul and several other large cities, wages of street car men are less than they are in St. Louis. In nearby localities wages are lower. In East St. Louis the maximum wage is 59 cents. The Kansas City is 58 cents. The People's Motor Bus Co. pays its conductors a maximum of 60 cents and its drivers a maximum of 65 cents.

"Wages paid by this company total about $10,000,000 a year and are two-thirds of the operating expense of the St. Louis street car system. Street car fares depend upon wages more than upon any other factor."

"The union officials state that the average annual earnings of street car men in St. Louis is $1554 for 365 days work a year. Any street car conductor or motorman working eight and one-half hours a day $65 a year at the present wage would earn in excess of $2000 a year."

SOUTH DAKOTAN CHOSN JUDGE IN EIGHTH CIRCUIT

Nomination of Archibald K. Gardner for Federal Bench Sent to Senate by Hoover.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Hoover today sent to the Senate the nominations of 11 United States Circuit and District Judges for various parts of the country. They include:

Curtis D. Wilbur, of California, Secretary of the Navy in the Coolidge Cabinet, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

Archibald K. Gardner, South Dakota, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Eighth Circuit, and George T. McDermott, Kansas, and Oris L. Phillips, New Mexico, United States Circuit Judges for the Ninth Circuit.

Alfred A. Wheat, New York, now an Assistant Attorney-General, was nominated a Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in place of Henry H. Glassie, former member of the Tariff Commission, who was appointed by President Coolidge at the last session of Congress, but whose nomination failed of confirmation.

Four District Judges for New York State were named as follows: Clarence G. Galston, for the Eastern District, and Francis G. Caffey, Alfred C. Cox, and John M. Woolsey for the Southern District. All four are residents of Great New York City.

A. Lee Wyman of South Dakota was appointed United States District Judge for the District of South Dakota.

Gardner, Wilbur, McDermott and Phillips were appointed by President Coolidge, but their nominations failed of confirmation in the legislative jam at the last session of the Senate. Galston was named in place of Alfred A. Wheat, who, it developed, was not a resident of the Eastern District of New York and consequently not eligible for appointment.

Caffey and Woolsey also were named by President Coolidge, but, Cox is a new appointee in place of Lloyd P. Stryker, whose nomination was rejected at the last session of the Senate by the former President. Wyman gets a reappointment from President Hoover, but the nomination of Gleim is new.

In the reorganization of the Federal circuits creating a new, or tenth circuit, Judge Robert E. Lewis of Denver and John H. Cotter of Guthrie, Okla., who have been in the Eighth Circuit, go to the Tenth, and the number of Circuit Judges in the Eighth is reduced from six to five. Judge Gardner gets the fifth place.

The other Circuit Judge in the Eighth Circuit, which includes Missouri, are Kimbrough Stone of Kansas City, William S. Kenyon of Fort Dodge, Ia.; Arlo S. Van Varkenburgh of Kansas City, and Wilbur, Booth of Minneapolis, Minn.

Commissioner Clegg had recommended District Judge C. B. Paris of St. Louis for the Circuit judgeship in the Eighth Circuit.

MORE SHIP LINES TO BE SOLD

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—Another step toward the abandonment of the Government shipping corporation was taken yesterday by the Shipping Board with the announcement that it would open bids on May 22 for the sale of the American Diamond Lines and the America France Line, two Trans-Atlantic cargo services, consisting of 23 vessels with a total tonnage of 193,000.

Negotiations for sale of two other lines, American Republics Line, a cargo service to South America from the Atlantic Coast with 14 ships aggregating 118,000 tons, and the Gulf-Mediterranean Line, with 10 vessels of a total tonnage of 10,000, also are in progress. The sale of these four lines will reduce the Shipping Board's fleet to 13 lines and 142 ships. At the end of the year the fleet operating under the Shipping Board consisted of 253 ships.

24 MASKED MEN DESTROY TEXTILE STRIKERS' OFFICES

Guard at Gastonia, N. C., Awakened by Sound of Axes and Hammers Demolishing Building.

Associated Press.
GASTONIA, N. C., April 18.—Strike headquarters of the National Textile Workers Union, from which union organizers have been directing strike at the Loray mill, was demolished early today by a band of masked men.

A relief store, established by the miners next door to the headquarters building, also was destroyed.

So far as could be learned, nobody was injured, although reports of several fist fights and the firing of scattered shots.

County and national guard officers, who are guarding the miners' property, said they had no clear idea as to the perpetrators. Union leaders, including Fred Erwin, president of the National Textile Workers Union, who called the strike, and George Forsberg, a craft employee of the Daily Worker, New York Communist organ, could not be located.

Persons who saw the crowd of men make kindling wood of the two buildings said they numbered several dozen. All wore white masks.

Strike On Three Weeks.

The strike at the Loray mill, owned and operated by the Mansfield-Jencks Company of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, was called three weeks ago yesterday. On the first day disorders, which threatened to turn into serious riots, caused five companies of National Guardsmen to be ordered to the scene. Later two companies were withdrawn and Deputy Sheriff substituted.

Since the start of the Loray difficulties, the National Textile Workers Union had organized miners and called strikes at Pineville, West Virginia, and Lexington, Kentucky. The Pineville and Lexington mills have been closed to prevent trouble.

The attack on the union headquarters started without warning shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. The headquarters building and the grocery store were located just off the property of the mill company. National Guardsmen who were awakened by the crash of axes and hammers breaking plate-glass windows in the store and hacking down the walls of the union headquarters.

Ten Under Arrest.

For a short time after the attack started the guardsmen could not locate the trouble. A number of shots were fired about the mill, apparently to give the alarm.

Maj. Paul R. Yeomans, executive officer, and Capt. E. C. Boyette, commanding the Hornet's Nest rangers, were the first officers to reach the scene. They sent an urgent call for guardsmen to Maj. G. B. Dolly, in command of the troops.

Ten persons who said they were sleeping in the union headquarters at the time of the attack were arrested by the troops. Later three others were arrested but two soon were released.

Occupants of houses near the union headquarters said they heard the explosion in the building. Those asleep in the headquarters said the building was invaded by a group of masked men who held them at the point of pistols, searched them and herded them into the street.

SOUTHERN CROSS FLYERS BACK IN CIVILIZATION

After Being Marooned for Two Weeks They Land in Derby, West Australia.

Associated Press.
SIDNEY, N. S. W., April 18.—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and pilot Charles T. Ulm reached civilization again after being marooned for more than two weeks in a mud flat near the mouth of the Glenelg River after they had made a forced landing in the air plane Southern Cross.

The two men famous for their trans-Pacific flight, landed at Derby, in West Australia, where they received a warm welcome.

Two rescue planes landed in the morning with supplies for the stranded airmen. It was expected that they would wait until tomorrow before taking off. The mud in which the plane had been bogged and dried somewhat, however, and Capt. Kingsford-Smith decided to set away without delay. The airmen started promptly and the plane rose swiftly.

Accompanied by the two rescue planes, the Southern Cross soon reached the Port George Mission station over which the airmen flew in a gesture of gratitude for the help to assist in the relief operations.

Navigator Litchfield and Radio Operator McWilliams, the two members of the crew of the Southern Cross, traveled in the escorting planes.

PUBLISHERS OFFER TO TAKE BACK JOAN LOWELL'S BOOK

Club Members Not Satisfied, Since Attacks on the Authenticity — May Exchange It.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Despite the fact that the publishers, Simon & Schuster, still believe Miss Joan Lowell's "The Cradle of the Deep" is a "great story," which gave its purchasers "full value for their money," arrangements have been made with the Book of the Month Club, which chose the volume for distribution to 65,000 of its members for the return of the book to the publishers by those club members who are dissatisfied.

Mrs. Lincoln Schuster of the publishing house confirmed this arrangement today in commenting on an announcement by officials of the Book of the Month Club to the effect that subscribers might send "The Cradle of the Deep" back to the club and choose another book, in view of recent disclosures that the volume, supposedly an authentic account of Miss Lowell's life at sea, was, in part, fiction.

"We never advertised Miss Lowell's book as an authentic autobiography," Schuster said. "We have frankly admitted that it contains many inaccuracies."

HOUSE WILL CLOSE FARM BILL DEBATE SATURDAY NIGHT

Rules Committee Hopes to Pave Way for Final Vote
About the Middle of Next Week.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—The new farm relief bill will be taken up in the House under an agreement to close general debate by Saturday night so that consideration of the measure under procedure permitting the offering of amendments may be started the first of the week.

The decision regarding procedure for discussion of the measure was made at a meeting of the House Rules Committee today.

Under the plan worked out by the committee leaders think the way would be paved for a final House vote on the measure about the middle of next week. Leaders had said a protracted consideration of the bill was not anticipated.

A resolution approved by the Rules Committee to give the bill right of way and outlining the procedure to be followed made no provision for allocating any specific amount of time to members opposed to the measure.

Bill Called First Step.

Leaders said, however, it was their intention to allow ample opportunity to the opposition to present its views and that time for this should be arranged by an informal agreement.

In the Senate the farm bill was presented by Chairman McNary of the Agriculture Committee and immediately was referred back to that committee for further consideration and formal approval. It is the plan of leaders to start actual consideration of the measure in the Senate on Monday.

Hardly had the Senate started work today when Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, proposed to restrict the Senate to the consideration of only farm relief legislation until it was enacted.

The Nye proposal, which is in line with the view of President Hoover that the extra session should be limited to farm relief and tariff revision, was offered in the form of a resolution and cannot be acted upon under the rules before tomorrow.

Farm Relief Plans Used.

The Senate farm bill differs from the House measure in that it includes sections suggested by each of the three major farm organizations. It has the doehner plan suggested by the National Grange, a board membership of 12 as desired by the American Farm Bureau Federation, and wording calculated to strengthen the stabilization corporations as suggested by the Farmers' Union.

While committee members were not informed by the three organizations that inclusion of their ideas necessarily meant support for the entire bill, they did think they had framed a measure which might be expected to draw a maximum of support from the organizations.

The Senate bill would give the President less power in the appointment of a chairman of the board. In the House bill the chairman would serve at the President's pleasure at a salary to be fixed by the Executive. In the Senate bill the President would be directed to appoint a chairman from one of the 12 members whose terms would be 12 years, whose salary would be $12,000.

Where Two Bills Agree.

The Secretary of Agriculture would serve as ex-officio chairman under the Senate bill, the same as in the House measure.

The report of the House committee was completed last night and under special permission sent to the printer. It described the new farm bill as only the first step in a program to aid the farmer and enumerated various other legislative proposals the committee plans to take up after the House has passed this bill.

The House committee declared it believed "that this program avoids the difficulties on which previous legislation has been wrecked."

"It is clear to us that we feel it unnecessary to attach a brief to that effect. It offers no subsidy, direct or indirect. The Government is not placed in business. There is no hint of price fixing or arbitrary price elevation. It requires no elaborate machinery and creates no powerful bureaucracy. It imposes no tax upon the farmers. It contains no economic unsoundness."

Offers Maximum Help.

"It does propose to furnish temporarily the capital upon which agriculture can organize to own and control its own business, without assuming control over the farmer it embraces all agriculture; it offers the maximum help the Government can give it concerning the stabilization of prices."

In addition to tariff revision and waterways development, the report recommended among the other steps contemplated in the program for helping the farmer, legislation to license the shippers and handlers of perishable products, improvement in the regulations of canning practices, the oleomargarine laws and the warehouse laws.

"We also intend to make a complete survey of the forestry program to which the Government is already committed," it said, "with a view to determining whether this can be so operated without substantial additional expense to the Government as to produce the withdrawal back into forests of lands which have been denuded of their timber and are now sub-marginal agricultural lands, thus at one and the same time reducing the surplus problem and aiding the reforestation of the nation."

Most of these legislative proposals have been placed before the House at various times in the past.

The committee report went into great detail regarding the workings of its general farm bill, which would create a Federal Farm Board with $500,000,000 as a revolving fund at its disposal for loans to co-operative marketing associations and stabilization corporations. The Farm Board would have the broadest powers "ever conferred by the Government on any agency to guide and bind a group of citizens." It said, adding that "we are proposing a practically complete exemption to the organization of agriculturists from operation of the anti-trust and monopoly statutes."

ILLINOIS HOUSE GROUP FOR 18TH AMENDMENT TEST

Resolution Calls on Attorney-General to Institute Case Over Control of Non-Beverage Liquor.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—By a vote of 18 to 15 the Judiciary Committee of the Illinois House of Representatives yesterday recommended adoption of a resolution calling on the Attorney-General to institute a test case of the eighteenth amendment in the United States Supreme Court.

A joint resolution, it was sponsored in the House by Representative Leroy Green of Rockford and in the Senate by Senator A. J. Marks of Chicago. No action has been taken on the Senate resolution.

If the House concurs in the committee report today, it will be sent to the Senate for further concurrence and, if approval is given by that body, Attorney-General Carlstrom will be called on to act.

The resolution, setting up that by the eighteenth amendment states give to Congress the power to legislate for control of sale and distribution of liquor used for beverage purposes, seeks to test whether this delegation of power to Congress includes liquor used as medicine or sacramental wine, and liquor used for other non-beverage purposes, such as industrial alcohol.

This question has been before the Supreme Court, sponsors of the resolution said, in cases brought by individuals, but never in a case brought by a State to determine just what grants it made to Congress in ratifying the eighteenth amendment.

Recognized drys voted with wets in the House yesterday to approve, $1 to 50, a resolution to create a special committee to investigate the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King in a dry raid. The vote was preceded by considerable criticism of the manner in which the case has been handled, speakers demanding that the Legislature through a special committee find out who may be at fault.

At least a dozen State Representatives classified as drys voted for the resolution, the point being made that this was not a wet and dry issue, but one in which prohibitionists were as anxious as anti-prohibitionists to see justice done.

A new prohibition bill was introduced by the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday without opposition. Its sponsor, Senator John Boehm of Chicago, pointed out that the State law prohibits malfunctions which the Federal Government permits, and asked that the State law be amended to conform with the Federal regulations.

TWO ST. LOUISANS INJURED IN UPSET NEAR SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

Lloyd Boyle Howard and Halstead Epperson Treated at Hospital; Auto Burns.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—Two St. Louisans, Lloyd Boyle Howard, 5625 Lindell boulevard, and Halstead Epperson, 4522 Maryland Avenue, were injured early today when Howard's Rolls Royce sedan failed to make a turn on the hard road near here, leaped a ditch, upset in a field and caught fire. The machine was almost a total loss.

Both young men, who suffered cuts on the head, were treated at a hospital.

Howard, who is 23 years old, is the foster son and heir of Miss Sidney Emeline Boyle, daughter of the late Judge William Boyle, who left an estate of $600,000 to his daughter. He attracted attention in 1925 when he eloped with a candy shop clerk and left his foster mother's Hotel Chase suite to take a job as a movie usher at $15 a week. He and his bride were subsequently forgiven by Miss Boyle, who reopened the Boyle mansion on Lindell boulevard as a home for the newly married pair.

Epperson is the son of Dr. Ernest L. Epperson and is employed at the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co.

ST. LOUIS STAFF OF DRY AGENTS BEING INCREASED

15 New Men Assigned to New York City, 20 to Rest of State.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Additional increases in the prohibition enforcement squads throughout the country are being made rapidly as agents can be secured. Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today in announcing that approximately 12 new agents had been assigned to New York City and about 20 to up-State New York.

An increase of about 15 agents in the Kentucky-Tennessee district was announced yesterday. Doran said the exact number of increases in other cities could not be made public, but added that the staffs of the enforcement bureau in San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago and other large cities were being increased.

The increase in the number of agents was made possible through the passage by Congress in the deficiency appropriation bill of an appropriation giving the Prohibition Bureau an additional $2,700,000, most of which will be used to add 27 enforcement agents to the force.

Mengelberg and Molinari Engaged by Philharmonic in New York.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The retirement of Walter Damrosch as guest conductor of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, suspended a career of 44 years on New York concert platforms, was announced yesterday by Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society.

Mackay also announced the engagement of William Mengelberg and Bernardino Molinari to share the orchestra season with Arturo Toscanini. Damrosch, who celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday last January, will not be available for next season on account of the pressure of other duties, especially in connection with his radio work. Damrosch was conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra from 1885 to 1927.

MAIN RETARDS FIELD WORK ON FARMS IN MISSOURI

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 18.—Field work was retarded by weather conditions of the past week, but wheat, oats and all grasses were favorably affected, the weekly Missouri crop summary of the United States Weather Bureau said yesterday.

The week was too cool, too wet and too cloudy, bringing plowing and other outdoor farm activities to a standstill. The general condition of wheat was reported as very satisfactory, with plants in more advanced fields standing six to eight inches. Alfalfa has developed similarly.

Cotton planting in the southeast counties has been delayed, like corn, by wet conditions. All Missouri fruit trees are in various stages of blossom, and the fruit apparently escaped injury in the general frost April 12, the report said.

The Ozark commercial strawberry crop is reported in very satisfactory condition.

ESSEN MEN ON COUNTY ELECTION BOARD

Governor Ignores G. O. P.
Committee in Appointing
Two Commissioners.

By a Staff Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—Gov. Fielder recognized Fred Essel, long Republican boss of St. Louis County, and ignored the present Republican County commissioners in appointing the members of the Board of Election Commissioners of the County today.

He named as chairman and as Republican member H. H. Hackmann of the Essel organization, and as Democratic member O. E.

Morton, newspaper man connected with the St. Louis County Leader, published in Clayton, whose appointment met the approval of Es-sel. Hackmann is a farmer and lives near Creve Coeur.

Hackmann had the active support of Senator Ralph of St. Louis County, who has been a leader of the Essel faction for many years.

While Ralph had no public connection with the naming of Morton, the Governor said Ralph approved him for the job, as did also

Arthur V. Lashly, former Prosecuting Attorney, a leading Democrat.

The present Republican organization in the County supported

Richard Hassall for the chairmanship, the County Committee giving him its endorsement. The Governor did not consult the Democratic organization in the selection of the Democratic member of the commission.

Hackmann and Morton succeed

Robert W. McElhinney and J. C.

Hiller, McElhinney being a Republican and Hiller a Democrat. The salary is $2,000 a year.

Hackmann has been an office holder in St. Louis County for many years, and has been clerk of the election board for the last four years. He is a director of the St.

Louis County Bank, has served as School Director two years, as County Judge, County Treasurer and Assessor.

Representative Hege of Kickwood, a member of the anti-Essel faction, today expressed strong resentment over Hackmann's selection. He said Hackmann was not acceptable to the majority of the Republicans of the county.

"Essel controls only two of the 10 places on the Republican County

Committee," Hege said. "The regular organization endorsed Hassall.

It is my opinion the Governor should have recognized the organization."

MONTRÉAL SPEAKEASIES JOIN

13 Drink-and-Dance Places Form to Make Arrests.

Montreal, April 18.—The Montral Gazette today prints the following:

To combat the police drive more effectually, Montreal's largest and most influential drink-and-dance establishments have formed themselves into a syndicate. Through this organization they plan not only a defensive campaign but a move which proposes to render police helpless again by legal means.

The speakeasy syndicate, which so far numbers about 15 members, has engaged legal services to attack the anti-freighters' law once more. This law, passed in 1928, was fought and nullified in the local courts some months after its aplication. At the last session of the Legislature, however, an amendment to it was passed, and again it

WURLITZER
1006 OLIVE STREETTWO BIG AIR LINES TO EXCHANGE TRAFFIC

Aviation Corporation and United Aircraft Effect Operating Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Two of the greatest aeronautical corporations of the country, controlling thousands of miles of airways in North and Central America, were in agreement today to co-operate and exchange traffic on lines which ultimately will extend from Seattle to South America, and possibly from Alaska to Buenos Aires.

The corporations are the Aviation Corporation of the Americas which owns Pan-American Airways and the United Aircraft & Air Transport Corporation, which controls Boeing Air Transport and Pacific Air Transport.

The agreement was disclosed in the announcement of Richard V. Hoyt, chairman of Aviation Corporation, that United Aircraft & Air Transport Corporation had purchased 30,000 shares of the capital stock of the Aviation Corporation, representing a value of approximately $100,000.

The deal also involves an agreement whereby United Air Transport takes over from the Boeing company options on the Compania de Transportes Aereos Latino Americano, which holds the Mexican air mail contract from Tijuana via Mexicali, Nogales and Mexico City to Tapachula.

This line when placed in operation probably will be extended southward to Guatemala City, and will include an air transport shuttle via Vera Cruz and Merida, Yucatan to Belize, connecting there with the Pan-American Airways line now operating between Miami and Cristobal, it was said.

Practically the agreement between the two corporations amounts to this: Aviation Corporation agrees to operate south of the Mexican border and through its present International Air Lines, while United Aircraft through its subsidiaries Boeing and Pacific Air Transport, will confine its operations to regions north of the border. At present Pacific Air Transport flies mail and passengers between Seattle and Los Angeles. Boeing carries the transcontinental mail between San Francisco and Chicago.

A survey has been completed by the Boeing company of an airway between Seattle and Juneau, Alaska, with a view of connecting the territory with the network of air lines in the United States and to the south.

As a result of the agreement it is expected that a new American corporation will be formed as a unit in Aviation Corporation of the Americas to control the proposed Mexican air line. Pacific Air Transport probably will extend its present line from Los Angeles to Tijuana, thus linking the cities of the Pacific Coast, and through Boeing the cities west of the Mississippi from Chicago to San Francisco, with the Mexican system.

Senator Harry W. Starr, also from Chicago, denounced the bill. He asked the Senate to withhold action until the investigating committee, of which he is chairman, has an opportunity to make a report. Starr said he had no confidence in the sanitary trustees.

CHICAGO SANITARY DISTRICT
WINS FIGHT IN ILLINOIS SENATE
Bill Approves Issue of $40, 000,000 Bonds Without Referendum Goes to House.
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—Chicago Sanitary District trustees last night obtained the approval of the State Senate to their plan of issuing $40,000,000 in bonds without a referendum. The vote was 27 to 11. The bill now goes to the House.

Senator James W. Barbour, sponsor of the measure, briefly asked for its passage to give the officials of the district "a chance to prove their pleas that there will be no more scandal."

Senator Harry W. Starr, also from Chicago, denounced the bill. He asked the Senate to withhold action until the investigating committee, of which he is chairman, has an opportunity to make a report. Starr said he had no confidence in the sanitary trustees.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

VANDENBERG BILL TO REAPPORTION CONGRESS READY

Measure Provides Automatic Regulation According to New Census if Legislators Fail to Act.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—An effort to give effect to the President's recommendation that reapportionment legislation be enacted at this session of Congress was begun in the Senate today by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.) Michigan.

Under any reapportionment that may be ordered on the basis of the present membership of the House—Missouri will lose at least three congressmen, Michigan and California, which have forged ahead in the population race during the last decade will be the principal gainers.

Vandenberg introduced a bill intended to take the place of the Fenn bill which was passed by the House in the last Congress but failed to come to a vote in the Senate.

President to Report Figures.

The Vandenberg bill proposes that if Congress after a decennial census failed to pass a reapportionment bill as it has steadily neglected to do since the census of 1920, reapportionment shall be effected automatically. The bill names the President as the ministerial agent who shall report the figures and the mathematical deductions therefrom. In the Fenn bill, this duty was given to the Secretary of Commerce.

It is also set out in the Vandenberg bill that the method of apportionment used by the President in the event of Congressional failure to act shall be "the method used in the last preceding apportionment." The Fenn bill specified the method known as "major fractions."

Unlike the Fenn bill, the new measure does not specifically require that the membership of the House shall be held to 435 as explained by its author; it leaves the way open to any change in the total that Congress itself may see fit to make.

Calls Fenn Bill Courageous.

Vandenberg, however, in his statement accompanying the bill, referred to "the courageous pronouncement of the Fenn bill to hold the House to its present membership," and said that the change in phraseology was made simply because his measure was a permanent enabling act, which would broadly accommodate itself to the decisions of Congress from time to time.

The bill provides that the first apportionment report shall be made to Congress by the President at the beginning of the second regular session of the present Congress; that is, in December, 1940, after the completion of the census of that year.

If this Congress fails to make the indicated changes in representation in the House, then, under the bill, apportionment would come about automatically in the second succeeding Congress and would remain in effect till after the taking of the next (1940) decennial census.

Violation of Constitution.

Vandenberg declares in effect that Congress must take out insurance against its own continued failure to observe a plain constitutional requirement.

"There is no convincing reason to anticipate that in lieu of an enabling act of this character, some influences and considerations which have prevented constitutional apportionment in the past will not prolong these defaults indefinitely. As entrenched iniquities increase, their voluntary correction proportionately becomes less easy and less likely."

State Board Votes to Order Practice Discontinued Because of Fire Hazard.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—

The official storage garage business conducted for State officials and clerks in the basement of the State Capitol will be discontinued on May 15, under an order issued yesterday by the Board of Permanent Seal of Government. The board directed that no car storage be permitted in the basement after that date, because of the fire and explosion hazard.

Within the fire and explosion hazard recognized by the board exists at present, the effective date of the order was delayed until May 15 to prevent an inconvenience to members of the Legislature who are keeping their cars in the Capitol basement. It is thought the Legislature will adjourn about May 15.

ELECTRIC CIRCUIT-BREAKER SOLVES PROBLEM OF FUSES Research Engineer Describes New Method, Now Used by Several Powerhouses.

A new electric circuit-breaker, which will eliminate the necessity of groping in the dark to replace burned fuses in a residence lighting system, was described last night by R. C. Dickinson, a research engineer for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the Engineers' Club, 4359 Lindell boulevard.

The new Deion circuit-breaker,

Dickinson said, is the first fundamentally new development in the field in 25 years. With the new breaker, the moving of a small lever will restore a lighting circuit.

The problem in breaking a high-voltage current, Dickinson explained, is that the momentum of the current bridges the gap in the circuit with an arc. In the ordinary circuit-breaker this arc is quenched with oil, a practice not desirable in buildings. The principle of the new discovery is to break the circuit with solid metal surfaces so arranged that all parts of the arc are under their influence. This deionization sets up sufficient insulation value to break the arc at the proper time in the current wave.

Deion breakers now in use in various powerhouses in the country, Dickinson said, are capable of rupturing currents of 20,000 amperes at 15,000 volts, while others are being developed with much higher potentialities.

GUARD DOZES, STORE BOMBED

For Three Months Chicagoan Had Kept Off Extortionists.
By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 18.—Michael Desalvo had known for three months that bombers would come, for extortionists had threatened violence if he did not pay them $9000. For three months, therefore, some member of the Desalvo family was on guard at the combination store and home 24 hours a day.

Last night the guard dozed, and an explosion wrecked the front of the building. Desalvo and members of his family were thrown from their beds, and windows in the neighborhood were shattered. Two dynamite bombs were used. Desalvo told police that he had received threatening letters, signed by the black hand symbol.

TO QUESTION CAMPBELL ABOUT OMAHA MURDER

Much Married Accused Slayer Denies Knowing Woman Killed in Nebraska.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 18.—Detectives from Omaha, Neb., are expected to arrive today to question H. Colin Campbell, the much-married bogart doctor, held for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Morris, about the slaying of Miss Ada Swanson, April 14, 1925.

She was killed with an ax. The murderer never was caught. She was a maid employed in the household of Joseph Sykes, secretary of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Campbell, yesterday denied knowing Sykes or Miss Swanson.

He said he had not been in Omaha since 1912, although he admitted he once had worked in the educational department of the Union Pacific.

Dispatches from Omaha indicated Campbell had been discharged by the railroad company in May, 1914, but that he made several visits to the city after that time. Many persons in Omaha remembered him.

Dr. Ambrose F. Down, an alienist retained by the defense, examined Campbell in the cell and left without disclosing the result of his examination. Campbell's attorney has indicated he will use an insanity defense. State attorneys have declared Campbell sane. X-ray pictures of the accused man's head were made yesterday.

After the experts had questioned and examined Campbell, Mrs. Roselea Campbell, his young wife, visited him, bringing toilet articles and notes from his three daughters, Dorothy, 14; Virginia, 11, and Sally Lou, 2.

Abe David, prosecutor of Unlen County, yesterday made public such details of Campbell's past life as are in his possession. His report asserted his real name was Henry C. Close, he was born near Dunellen, N. J., and that his father was once a teacher in New York public schools.

The manager of William Hanna, defendant in General Sessions in New York, was responsible for the success of the authorities in linking Campbell with an embezzlement charge in New York in 1905. When Hanna read a list of Campbell's assumed names in a newspaper his memory went back to 1905 when he filed the records of a man with a similar name. The records were searched and Campbell admitted he had been convicted of the sale of cameras stolen from the firm by which he was then employed.

TWO WINE GARDENS CLOSED FOR YEAR BY FEDERAL JUDGE

Places at 9845 Eugenia and at Manchester and Kingshighway Declared Nuisances.

Two wine gardens, found by Federal Judge Davis to be nuisances under the Volstead act, were ordered padlocked yesterday for the period of a year.

Prohibition agents related details of numerous raids on the two places, one operated at 9845 Eugenia street, by John and Marie Gergen, and the other at the southeast corner of Manchester avenue and Kingshighway, operated by Louis Poulos. Dance floors were at both places.

An injunction was also issued against the barroom at 703 North Tamm, formerly conducted by Dan Walsh, but the owner of the property, William L. Barnard, was permitted to give bond of $1000 and rent the place to a new tenant, who he assured the Court would sell hardware in the place instead of hard liquor.

There are several similar injunction suits pending before both Judge Davis and Judge Faris, growing out of raids last December.

Seven charitable bequests were made, including $5000 legacies each to the Berry School of Mount Berry, Ga., and the Maine Sea Coast Mission of Bar Harbor. The residue of the estate and jewelry, will go to Louise Whitfield Carnegie of this city.

PLANS FOR DEPRESSING TRACKS IN FOREST PARK

City Officials and Wabash Officers to Confer on Costs of Project.

Plans for depressing the Wabash railroad tracks in Forest Park, where they now run on an embankment, and for eliminating the grade crossing at the Union boulevard entrance of the park, will be discussed by city officials with officers of the railroad company, at a conference to be held next week.

Work on River des Peres sewer will reach the point, next October or November, where it will necessitate closing of Grand drive and of the Union boulevard extension to and into the park. The city officials would like to depress the tracks at that point, and build a driveway over them, at the same time, so that only one period of traffic interruption and temporary disfigurement of the park will be needed.

Under preliminary plans made under the direction of President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, the Union viaduct into the park would have a clearance of 18 feet over the depressed tracks, as the Delmar viaduct now has. The depression would be continued southeast through the park, from Union to the point of exit at Kingshighway and Audubon avenue. The tracks now are depressed at the latter point, where the highway crosses them.

Instead of the present embankment and railroad bridge over Grand drive, near the Lindell entrance of the park, there would be an open cut containing the tracks, and this cut would be crossed by a bridge at Grand drive, and by traffic and foot bridges at other intersections.

The cut would be west and south of the present embankment, and the point of crossing Grand drive would be about 400 feet west of the present bridge.

L. R. Bowen, chief engineer of bridges and buildings for the city, estimates the cost of the work at $480,000. The city's share will be a subject for discussion with the railroad officials, but would be probably about one-third, or $160,000. The low cost, as compared with track depression and crossing elimination outside the park, is due to the lack of damages which are a heavy item when private property is affected. Funds for this use were provided in the 1928 bond issue.

President Kinsey said today that in depressing the park tracks and building a viaduct at Union, it would be desirable at the same time to eliminate the DeBaliviere grade crossing and build a viaduct at that entrance to the park. He said, however, that it would be possible, from an engineering standpoint, to carry out the depression at Union and southeast through the park and leave the DeBaliviere crossing as it now is.

MRS. NANCY HAHN COMPLETES COLONIAL MOTHER STATUE

Memorial Drinking Fountain of Daughters of American Colonists to Be Placed in Forest Park.

Mrs. Nancy Coomans Hahn has finished a memorial drinking fountain, "The Colonial Mother," the design for which was accepted by the Missouri Society of the Daughters of American Colonists, in 1922. The fountain is of gray Missouri granite, surmounted by the bronze figure of a pioneer woman with a child in her arms and another clinging to her skirts.

The fountain will be erected in Forest Park, near the Jefferson Memorial. Members of the society hope to see it placed on the parkway in front of the building. The figure, which is six feet four inches tall, cost $5000. It will be unveiled either Oct. 18 or 19.

Secretary Says Barlow Claims Are Being Investigated, but No Progress Made.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Secretary of State Stimson today corrected his statement of yesterday that the State Department had asked the United States Embassy in Havana to urge expedition of action on the claims of Joseph E. Barlow, a former resident of Georgia and Florida, for the recovery of property which he alleged was seized by the Zayas administration.

Stimson said he had been in error in announcing the matter had been called to the attention of the Embassy. The matter, he added, was now being investigated in the State Department, but he said no definite action had been taken.

NEW CRUISER IN GERMAN NAVY

Joenigsberg Replaces Famous Raider of Same Name

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, April 18.—The new cruiser Joenigsberg, launched here March 26, 1927, was officially listed yesterday as a unit of the German Navy. It replaces the famous German raider of the same name which the British bottled up in the Rufiji River delta in East Africa early in the World War and which subsequently was blown up by its own crew.

EIGHT CHANGES IN PERSONNEL OF WESTERN A. U. BOXING TEAM

REORGANIZATION LEAVES FIVE ST. LOUISANS ON THE SQUAD

By Damon Kerby.

An almost complete reorganization in the personnel of the boxing team that will represent the Western A. U. in the national junior boxing tournament at Chicago, April 22 to 25, was announced today by the president of the district organization, Robert Probst.

John Schwake, district heavyweight champion, and Gilbert "Feejee" Terry, flyweight titleholder, are the only St. Louisans named to the original team who will compete. Those who were dropped, from St. Louis, are: Lightweight Champion Kenneth Lee; Benny Moore, middleweight king; Dan Durso, bantam champion, and of course, Jack Wilson, 126-pound leader, who turned pro. Another dropped: Nathan Crystal, lightweight leader, of East St. Louis.

Three St. Louisans on Team.

Three local amateurs, besides Schwake and "Feejee" Terry, are on the reorganized team. They are: Woodrow Williams, 112 pounds; Joe Herbst Jr., 118 pounds, and Edgar Terry, 126 pounds. Every local member of the team is a member of the Flori Olympic A. C.

The Western district will be represented with 10 men at the national tournament. The remaining five, of the new team, are Oklahoma boxers who never competed in local ring. The Oklahoma fighters are: Glen Mute, 118 pounds; Madero Villarreal, 112 pounds; Clay Bond, 126 pounds; Willard Wheale, 147 pounds, and Ralph Wileman, 135 pounds. Villarreal, a flyweight, is the only one of the five of whom President Probst has personal knowledge due to his fighting ability. Villarreal went to either the quarterfinals or semifinals in the Olympic tryouts.

All the Oklahoma boys are visitors in amateur tournaments conducted in their home State. Probst said: "They were recommended to me by the district amateur commissioner of Oklahoma, A. W. Miller."

Inability to get away from their work was the reason for members of the original team being dropped, Probst said, with the exception of Lee, who gave no reason for declining to go to the meet.

Boxers Have Record.

Each of the three St. Louisans added to the team is well known in local amateur circles. Williams lost to "Feejee" Terry in the flyweight final of the district tournament here March 7, on a close decision; and Edgar Terry was outpointed by Jack Wilson in a featherweight semifinal, and in the other flyweight semifinal, Herbst beat Ed Grover. Herbst will compete in the 115-pound class in the national tournament.

The reorganization of the team lets out three out-of-town boxers—Joe Baxter, light heavy, of Duran, Ok.; Fay Patterson, middleweight, and Roy Jacks, light heavy, of Wichita, Kan. Baxter won the district middleweight championship, while the others were runners-up. None of the three could leave his work, Probst declared.

The Oklahoma entrants will not stop off in St. Louis en route to the tournament, the district president said. The local delegation will depart from St. Louis Sunday, under the care of Joe Herbst Sr.

Berlenbach Will Make Mat Debut Against German

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Paul Berlenbach, formerly the mantle of light heavyweight champion of the prize ring and whose application for a wrestler's license was approved at yesterday's meeting of the State Athletic Commission, will make his metropolitan debut as a grappler next Monday night when he faces Fred Grudeimer, German star, in one of the two final bouts at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

Prior to invading the fist-making Berlenbach made quite a record for himself on the mat, which included the winning of the Olympic light heavyweight crown at Antwerp in 1920, the world crowns and four metropolitan titles—eight championships in all. At the time Paul was only a few pounds above the middleweight limit, but had little difficulty disposing of his heavier opponents.

Net Teams to Play.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 18.—Kansas and Missouri tennis teams will play here Saturday in connection with the Kansas relay games. William Huse, Kansas coach, announced yesterday.

Tacs Win Basket Title

The Tacs are champions of the Sherman Park Community Center Junior Basketball League, defeating the Blackstone A. C. 18 to 12, in the deciding game. Each had previously won a game.

MRS. MAY SUTTON BUNDY AND HER DAUGHTER, DOROTHY.

MRS. BUNDY AND DAUGHTER HERE, ON WAY ABROAD

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., formerly national and international women's tennis champion, winner, and her 15-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were in St. Louis yesterday, the guests of Miss Eugenia Chouteau of 424 Maryland terrace. They arrived in St. Louis Tuesday.

The Bundys departed at noon for New York, where they will remain for England. Mrs. Bundy plans to compete for the Wimbledon Women's International tournament, in which she won the title 24 years ago. Mrs. Bundy also told friends that she probably would compete in the French championship, and perhaps other events in Europe.

Mrs. Bundy, who is 42 years old, has retained much of her strength and tennis prowess, as was shown by her recent play in California and by her participation in American events in recent years. She believes she is almost as effective today as she was when as Miss May Sutton she won the American women's tennis championship at the age of 17. It was in the following year that she went abroad and won the international title.

Mrs. Bundy is the mother of four children. Dorothy is accompanying her to Europe and already has become a very formidable player under her mother's coaching.

MISS WILLS ON WAY ABROAD FOR MORE CONQUESTS ON NET COURTS.

WOMEN'S TENNIS TITLE HOLDER IS ACCOMPANIED BY FOUR GOLF ACES

NEW YORK, April 18.—With feminine athletes usurping the place in the spotlight hitherto held by men, the second American invasion of European golf links and tennis courts of this year is under way. Helen Wills and Glenna Collett are the leading figures in the athletic contingent which sailed on the Aquitania last night, with the mere males, such as "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, Tommy Armour and George von Elm, playing the minor roles.

To Miss Wills it seems more important that a young American artist is on her way to England for an exhibit of her series in a Bond street gallery than that the queen of the world's tennis courts is about of fresh triumphs at Wimbledon and in Holland, France and Germany. She found considerable cause for apprehension in the coming display although favorable comments by New York critics have lightened the burden. On the tennis courts she is sure of a good reception, particularly with two Wimbledon victories behind her.

The rumors that a presentation at the court of St. James also will be on the program of Miss Wills' visit to Europe was a topic of subject before she sailed with the all-important question of "when" in regard to the diamond engagement ring she is wearing. She refused to discuss the first, while her answer to all questions about the wedding date was "I honestly haven't decided."

With no such exciting problems in the background, Miss Collett is concerned only with the one object of her voyage, the British women's championship on the famous links at St. Andrews. The girl who holds the position in American golf equivalent to that of Miss Wills in tennis, has not met with the same success in Great Britain, and is making this fourth attempt to win the title in a do-or-die manner. In three previous attempts she met with two defeats and once was unable to reach the links on account of the labor strike. This time, she intends to concentrate on the one tournament and to profit by her previous failures. Miss Collett is booked for the return voyage soon after the championship.

The masculine contingent, Mehlhorn, Armour and Von Elm, is bound for the British open championship after a few of the golfing honors that may escape the Ryder Cup team. Von Elm, former American amateur champion, may also try for the British amateur title.

Miss Wills will be presented at the British court in Buckingham Palace on May 9 or 10, and for this reason the matches scheduled to be played by the women's teams of Holland and the United States on May 11 and 12 have been put over until May 12 and 13. Miss Edith Gross, third ranking player, and Miss Marjorie Merrill, sixth ranking player in the country, both of whom will be teammates of Miss Wills, will sail next week.

Following the match at The Hague in Holland, Miss Wills' itinerary will be as follows:

May 17, 18 and 19—Match play at St. Cloud, France.

May 20—Women's championship of France at Auteuil.

June 7, 8 and 9—Match play in Berlin.

June 11—Grass court championships at Buckingham, England.

June 24 to July 9—All English championships at London.

Just before sailing time, Miss Collett stated that she would compete in the German championship tournament starting May 28, as well as in the British classic, commencing at St. Andrews in Scotland on May 13.

The new Number 1 hole at Glen Echo, which was constructed last year, provides an attractive test. Last year the fairway was pretty rough, but this has been smoothed out. The hole is a dogleg to the left, 379 yards long, and a par 4.

No. 18, another hole constructed last season, is 406 yards long, and a par 4. It is a slight dogleg to the right. The fairway is in good condition.

BALDWIN ANNOUNCES A 'POLICY OF SOBRIETY'

British Premier Opens Election Campaign of Conservative Party.

LONDON, April 18.—Premier Baldwin opened the election campaign of the Conservative party today with an address before 2000 representative conservatives from all parts of the country in which he characterized the policy of his party as one of steady advancement and promised its continuance and development.

"Our is a policy of sobriety which you can see through," he said, "of nursing our trade into better conditions of looking after the education and health of our people and particularly of our women and children—a policy which goes into every home and every cottage throughout the country."

"From end to end it is a policy which you know will be carried out to the utmost of our ability and I will promise nothing more. People who think pre-war electioneering is going to win a post-war election are making a mistake, our people think. They want to learn and above all they want to do the right thing."

"I cannot stand up and I will not stand up before a people like that and go one iota beyond what I can perform if I have the opportunity. It is that deep sense of responsibility of our people which will make them deaf to appeals of cupidity on the one hand or appeals of credulity which will reach them on the other."

The Prime Minister declared that the Conservative party had been able to offer a consistent policy aimed at the development of the country's industries and the placing in them of men in permanent employment.

"We have not neglected any of those services that make for the happiness and welfare of our own people," said the Premier while the assemblage cheered him. "You may judge us by what we have done. You may judge us by this—that we do not promise more than we can perform."

Replying to a vote of thanks expressed the firm conviction that the Conservative party under his leadership again would achieve victory, Premier Baldwin said:

"The battle has now begun. Noise and posters count for a lot in elections but the two things that count for most are unity and faith, and we have both."

NORRIS FOR LIGHT ON SECRET SALE OF BOSTON DAILIES

Trade Commission to Act in Purchase of Herald and Traveler Stock by International Paper Co.

DEAL IS DISCLOSED

subsidiary of Big Power Concern Said to Be Planning Other Acquisitions of Press Interests.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Draft.

BOSTON, April 18.—The disclosure last week that a subsidiary of the International Paper & Power Co. had purchased secretly, last January, a half interest in the Boston Publishing Co., owner of the Herald and the Traveler, an evening paper with less influence but larger circulation, has excited wide interest.

Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Nebraska), has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the secret sale of 50 per cent of his publishing company's stock to the Publishers' Investment Corporation of Delaware, one of the many subsidiaries of the International Paper & Power Co., and two resolutions have been introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature which, calling for a general investigation of power company propaganda in the State, were unanimously directed at the court sale which was disclosed only when the Herald made it its ownership.

The terms of the sale have not been made public. It is known, however, that the paper and power company bought exactly 50 per cent of the stock and that most of it was obtained from the Winslow family, which controlled the United Shoe Machinery Co. One reason given for not announcing the sale in January was that it was apparently a transaction between stockholders and the paper company.

Once Owned by Railroad.
About 20 years ago the Herald was owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the railroad company to divest itself of the ownership. The question naturally arises as to whether government agency has jurisdiction to inquire into the present public utility control. Apparently State agencies are barred by the fact that the Publishers' Investment Corporation has a Delaware charter.

The amounts involved in the general capital structure are enormous. The International Paper Co. alone had assets of more than $25,000,000 at the beginning of the year. The New England Power Association, the public utility subsidiary, has assets of more than $25,000,000. Figures as to the assets of the International Hydroelectric Co., the Canadian subsidiary, were not available here today.

Makup of Power Group.
The New England Power Association is composed of four wholesale companies, one holding company, 11 distributing companies, one electric railway company and four construction and engineering companies. These companies are for the most part in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire, roughly the southern end of New England.

The disclosure of the secret sale was made by the Baltimore Evening American, a Hearst paper, which featured the power aspect of the sale.

The next morning the Post known in Boston as a family newspaper, meaning that it is controlled by one family, followed suit. The next day the Herald, in a leading editorial after featuring its circulation gains, made the following statement:

"The second feature of interest to our readers is the sale of stock for the Boston Publishing Co. to the International Paper Co. The fact of the new purchase appeared first in the news returns to the United States Government from the Boston Publishing Co. filed in a routine manner. MORRIS FOR LIGHT ON SECRET SALE OF BOSTON DAILIES

Asks Trade Commission to Act in Purchase of Herald and Traveler Stock by International Paper Co.

DEAL IS DISCLOSED
BY POSTAL REPORT

Subsidiary of Big Power Concern Said to Be Planning Other Acquisitions of Press Interests.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Half Correspondent of the Post.
BOSTON, April 18.—The disclosure last week that a subsidiary of the International Paper & Power Co. had purchased secretly, last January, a half interest in the Boston Publishing Co., owner of the Herald, an influential morning newspaper, and the Traveler, an evening paper with less influence but larger circulation, has excited wide interest.

Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the secret sale of 50 per cent of this publishing company's stock to the Massachusetts Legislature which called for a general investigation of power company propaganda in the State are actually directed at the covert sale which was disclosed only when the Herald made its ownership report as required by the postal laws.

The terms of the sale have not been made public. It is known, however, that the paper and power company bought exactly 50 per cent of the stock, and that most of it was obtained from the Winslow family, which controlled the United Shoe Machinery Co. One reason given for act announcing the sale in January was that it was primarily a transaction between stockholders and the paper company.

Owned by Railroad.

About 20 years ago the Herald was owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the railroad company to divest itself of the ownership.

The question naturally arises as to what Government agency has jurisdiction to inquire into the matter.

At least one article favoring the present public utility control.

Apparently State agencies are barred by the fact that the Publishers' Investment Corporation has a Delaware charter.

As is usual with public utility companies, the financial structure involved in the newspaper stock market is highly complicated, a wheels-within-wheels sort of affair.

According to the postal report, the Publishers' Corporation is controlled by the International Securities Co., a Massachusetts association affiliated with the International Paper Co. of New York. This latter company in turn is a subsidiary of the International Paper & Power Co.

Executive Is Pointed Out.

Horatio executives declare that white paper was the cause of stock purchase and that neither publication will be a propaganda organ for the power group. Riva editors say that they have already seen evidence to the contrary in at least one article favoring the international power companies.

The rival editors point out that even if white paper is the fundamental issue, the present stock purchase may lead to others, which would mean a chain of newspapers controlled by the paper and power company.

Under this plan the paper and power company could raise the price of news print to a point beyond the reach of the independent newspaper yet not affect paper and power company profits because it would be taking money from one of its own pockets and putting it into another. Herald executives reply that they had a hard time to buy paper in the open market and in case of a shortage they now are assured a supply.

Reports have been current in the Boston financial district and in newspaper circles that the paper and power company intended to buy other newspapers. So far as known, none of these rumors has proved true and the writer was unable to verify them. Both here and in Washington there was a persistent report that an attempt had been made to obtain complete control of the Post, a morning paper, and that a high price had been offered. An officer in a position to know asserted, however, that the strongest statement that could be made was that he had been asked to set a price, which he had refused to do, on his fiftieth birthday, March 14.

Even relativity does not account for the sudden transmogrification of Prof. Einstein's manor house at the suburb of Neudelaud into a vacant lot.

The Berlin Aldermen, when they bought the Neudelaud house and its large park as an ideal retreat for the scientist who longs for solitude, overdid a house for the transfers persons, which granted Frau von Brandis, its owner, who is now in Africa, the right of domicile for five days.

To make amends, they have offered Prof. Einstein and his wife a one-story garden plot nearby.

But there is no house on the property, and if Prof. Einstein accepted this gift in place of the other, he would have to build his own home.

Einstein has not commented on the sudden disappearance of the house from his suburban paradise, but the Berlin Aldermen are busy putting up some sort of front against the criticism and ironical comments of the Berlin press.

The second feature of interest to our readers is the sale of stock in the Boston Publishing Co. to the International Paper Co. The fact of the new purchase appeared first in the news returns to the United States Government by the Boston Publishing Co. filed in a routine way. It had been felt that a close contact between a great producer and a great consumer of white paper would work to the advantage of both companies, the readers of

$2,702,200 SAVED PUBLIC BY BARGE LINE LAST YEAR

Gen. Ashburn Reports 18 Cents a Ton Profit
Against 1-Cent Deficit of 1927—1,435,560
Tons of Freight Carried.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Inland Waterways Corporation, a Government owned organization operating barge lines on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers, carried a total of 1,435,560 tons of freight last year, or an increase of 222,390 tons compared with 1927.

Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the corporation, in his annual report to the Secretary of War made public today said this freight was carried at an average revenue of 14 cents a ton, less than in 1927, but with a reduced expense of 32 cents a ton.

This, he said, gave a net operating income of 18 cents a ton, against a net operating deficit of 1 cent a ton in 1927. The figures referred only to the all-water lines.

The Warrior River Terminal Co. increased its net operating profit 20 cents a ton.

It was estimated by Ashburn that $2,702,200 had been saved to the public on freight transported by the Mississippi-Warrior service during 1928. These savings were placed at $240,600 on grain, $598,400 on sugar, $228,400 on cotton, Says Deal Is Above-Board.

That is the whole significance of the transaction, a plain, open, above-board arrangement, long contemplated, has finally been effected and made known in a plain, open, above-board manner.

"Any inference that the purchase of stock in the Boston Publishing Co. by the International Paper Co. means a change in the policy of the Herald or Traveler is altogether false.

"The internal affairs of each pa-plices will remain the same. The policies will remain the same. The aim will remain the same, to produce first-class publications day by day."

The editorial further stated that the management would remain the same except that former Gov. Channing Cox and John R. Macomber would join the Board of Directors. Cox is vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston and Macomber is one of the managers of Harris Forbes & Co., Inc., the investment house which has specialized in international securities and a member of the executive committee of the New England Power Association.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Hoover would be requested to ask foreign diplomats stationed in Washington to refrain from the serving or use of intoxicating liquors under a bill introduced today by Senator Bleuse (Dem.) of South Carolina.

Bleuse also offered a resolution to make the dry law applicable to vessels flying the United States flag on the high seas. This was directed at the Leviathan and other formerly Government-owned ships, whose new owners have declared wines would be sold on the ships outside the three-mile limit.

Bleuse's resolution regarding the diplomats not only would have them denied the right to serve liquor on the Embassies, but would call upon the President to ask public officials here and abroad to refrain from drinking liquor with representatives of the foreign governments.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today re-introduced his resolution declaring for recognition by the United States of the Soviet Government.

The Boston stock purchase had directed the attention of several Boston papers to Maine, where the Insull power group has been extremely active. Insull, through the New England Public Service Co., and the Central Maine Power Co., has knit together the public utilities, the banks and the Gannett chain of newspapers.

173,093—3 Decreases.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 18.—The Christian Herald's annual religion census shows that churches in the United States gained 1,115,000 new members in 1928, almost twice as many as they gained in 1927, it was announced today.

The Baptist Church leads in the gains, its 14 branches showing a combined increase of 375,842 new members: the Roman Catholic Church comes second, with 360,153 new members, and the Disciples of Christ third, with 173,093. All other gains were under 100,000.

Three denominations showed decreases in membership: the Evangelical Synod of North America, the Evangelical Church, and the Friends.

All the others showed gains ranging from 500 reported by the 10 bodies of the Oriental Catholic Church up to the more than 360,000 gained by the Roman Catholic Church.

There were also increases in the number of new ministers and church members, where more than once during the last ten years there have been decreases.

The following table shows the number of communicants and the increase in each denomination.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mr. Taft's Prophecy:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The practical results issuing from the adoption of the recent Jones law, with its concave initiation of a murderous jihad against supporters of its fanatical sponsors, must give grave concern to friends of constitutional government in America. Apparently the fundamental Foundation Amendment of the Federal Constitution is abrogated at the dictation of a prohibition hierarchy.

Even the decision of the United States Supreme Court of March 2, 1925, in the Carroll case, providing that Federal officers may effect searches and seizures on suspicion without a warrant if they "have reasonable cause to believe" that liquor is being transported, cannot be stretched to justify the callous kidnappings recently. That these searches and seizures without warrant are to be restrained with a due consideration for the person of the suspect is clearly indicated in a ruling of the Supreme Court quoted as follows:

Searchings and seizures are as constitutional under the amendment when made under valid search warrants as they are unconstitutional because unreasonable when made without them; the permission of the amendment has the same constitutional warrant as the prohibition has, and the definition of the former restrains the scope of the latter.

The deplorable consequence of ignoring this emphasized inhibition is seen in recent events. The insecurity of our citizens from these unreasonable searches and seizures was foreseen by Chief Justice William Howard Taft in 1915. In a letter he wrote as follows:

The business of manufacturing alcoholic liquor and beer will go out of the hands of law-abiding members of the community (as St. Louis well realizes) and will be transferred to a quasi-criminal class. * * * A minority, conceiving that it is moved by a moral issue, loses its sense of proportion and sacrifices other issues, no matter how vital to the nation. Such minority visits its condign punishment upon all public servants who oppose it on this issue, however useful to the State they may be. They fear the balance of power that an active political minority may wield against their political fortunes.

Thus the Anti-Saloon League politician and his whole following of disreputable fanatics have, as Mr. Taft prophesied, "recklessly and selfishly hurried us into an irretrievable national blunder."

Further comment upon this extraordinarily far-sighted and discerning prophecy of America's foremost constitutional lawyer is superfluous. It has been fulfilled in the last winter, and glares forth in the sanctuary of our national life as did the fiery handwriting upon the walls of Belshazzar's banquet hall.

Thinks Street Car Rides Are Not Worth a Nickel:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
HEY are now talking about raising car fare to 10 cents. What do we get for it? Stand and wait for a couple to pass you up. Then try and get in. No standing room, packed like sardines, that's working people's service. And then they want 10 cents for that; when it ain't worth 5 cents. It's a good thing some people use the trolleys, or half of us wouldn't get to work.

A CONSTANT RIDER.

Condition of City Streets:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
AFTER reading the many letters from writers to your paper, praising our great city, I wonder if there are not some who notice a number of prominent defects?

Others will agree with me, that although our city has many beautiful sites and wonderful improvements, there is still something left to be done.

What about the streets and drives leading to these places of artistic beauty? Should they not correspond likewise, so as to multiply, and not deduct praise? Where do the funds go that are appropriated for our streets? Thousands of dollars have been paid in by the citizens, parents, and from the looks of things, very little of it has been used for said purpose.

I went out for a ride recently in a new automobile and the condition of some of the main streets were enough to wreck a car. The park drives are terrible and are a disgrace to our city. Forest Park and Carondelet Park have hardly a smooth drive in them. There are holes in them large enough to bury an automobile, and they are so close together that it is just one continuous bumpy road.

South St. Louis seems to be favored, as it has the best streets, but even they are not much to brag on. North St. Louis is in a terrible condition, and it certainly is a shame that things are left in such a shape for the public eye.

The street dividing those beautiful cemeteries, Calvary and Bellefontaine, is almost impassable. It mars the looks of the cemeteries and that is one street that should be by all means, made into a nice avenue.

If any one would look into the important details of this matter, and a little action accomplished, a great number of us would be pleased.

A. M. CAIRNS.

POLITICS VS. THE PEOPLE.

What happens when political considerations take precedence over the public interest in a legislative session is illustrated by the status of the budget bills at Jefferson City.

The chief gain by the bills as originally drawn would have been a central purchasing agency for the State, which is notoriously wasteful and much more political in its disbursement of State funds than is good for the public purse. Gov. Caulfield, who had made economy and more businesslike methods one of his principle objectives during the campaign, surrendered the State purchasing agency to the politicians two weeks ago. Instead of taking a leaf from the story of good government in New Jersey under Woodrow Wilson or in New York under Alfred E. Smith, who took such causes to the people and thus whipped the politicians, Mr. Caulfield weakly handed this part of his budget reform program over to the Capitol crowd led by Secretary of State Becker.

The Democrats control the Senate. They could have stood by the Governor and supplied him with strength he does not possess either in his party or himself. That would have been to serve the interest of the people, but the Democrats in the Senate seemed to feel that their first allegiance was to their party. Partisanship therefore placed them on the side of the Capitol politicians. Now we are told by Jefferson City dispatches that they want to re-evaluate somewhat from this position. They are afraid they will be charged with wrecking the budget program. In our opinion they would much better have reasoned at the outset that the party had something to gain by co-operation and nothing to gain by playing the dog in the manger.

Politics have usually played this ignoble part in the Missouri Legislature. They have prevented re-apportionment. They have kept the Legislature from doing things for the people which could easily have been done except for the unfortunate obstruction tactics of the party out of power. What have the Democrats gained by such a policy? Have they impressed the voters of the State with their high qualifications as legislators, or have they lost the confidence of the people because it is felt that they put party above the welfare of the State? Unquestionably the latter is the case. The voters have an impression that both the party and its tactics belong to the old horse and buggy period when the State was left to shift for itself.

The Democrats in the Senate have lost their opportunity. They should have stood to a man for progressive legislation, as the progressives have done in the United States Senate. Those men at Washington, though always constituting a minority, have set an illustrious example for minorities. They way the people voted for them last November was one of the most significant features of the national elections.

BOXING AND THE SUPREME COURT.

It was highly unlikely that the Supreme Court of the United States would exercise its August judicial powers in behalf of the lowly fight fan—but it has happened. The court refused to entertain a claim by Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, for a $10,000 purse held up by the Wisconsin Boxing Club. The purse was offered for a bout which took place in Milwaukee in August, 1927. It was the contention of the club that Dundee had agreed to conduct the fight under rules which prohibited clinching and wrestling, but that he had violated those rules constantly until the sixth round, when the fight was stopped, and declared "no contest."

Dundee as a champion is distinctly of the Cambert variety, and it would have been a terrible blow to fight audiences if the Supreme Court had given him its ear. Why, it might even have encouraged some promoter to give Striking another chance. We claim no knowledge of the Supreme Court's private tastes, but we would wager a copy of the revised statutes against a habeas corpus writ that the court much prefers to have the boys mix it when they step into the ring.

EXPRESS STREET CARS.

Sixty-three minutes from Fourth and Market streets to Kirkwood, a distance of about 15 miles, can hardly be called rapid transit, but it is 12 minutes better than the time that has heretofore prevailed over devious street car routes and is a step in the right direction.

The plan of the Public Service Co. to run cars direct over existing rails from Kirkwood to the central business district of St. Louis makes use of present facilities to gain speed in transportation and suggests that much more might be accomplished by the application of intelligence to existing facilities.

The Kirkwood express service is in the nature of an experiment and only two cars will be run morning and evening until it is determined whether or not the public will sufficiently patronize the service to make it profitable. If it proves profitable it no doubt will encourage the street car management to apply the same principle more extensively in trying to lure back to the fare box—and the straps—a public that is rapidly becoming alienated from street car transportation.

Improvement of service is the last thing many street car companies have thought to try in the face of diminishing business, but if just a little intelligent effort along that line will bring back only a small percentage of the riders who desire fast and comfortable mass transportation it will mean the difference between success and failure.

With three more charges to face here and two more in Chicago, it may be said that Roy C. Toombs has some charge account.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT.

Latterly spring has come to have a significance in St. Louis that it has nowhere else. It is not the augury of Belleville asparagus, the peril of flood in the Mississippi River, or the prospect of moving on May Day that makes us await spring with mingled fear and pleasure.

No, indeed. What renders us alternately apprehensive and ecstatic is the chance that Alexander the Great may be as good as ever or perform how to time and turn in his pitching glove. We are glad to report that he seems this year to be as good as he was when he stood the Yankees on their heads and won the world's championship for the Cardinals in 1926. He opened the season for the Cardinals at Cincinnati, won 5 to 2, gave five hits, and never had more than four batters face him in a single inning. The reporters who watched him from the press stand say he had everything, that his control was perfect and that every time he strode from the field he was applauded. Forty-two years old, and beginning his nineteenth year in the National League, he was still Alexander the Great. They dubbed him that 15 years ago, when he won a pennant for Philadelphia, and in all those years time has not withered his mighty arm.

* O sweet, O rare, and incomparable spring!

NEITHER GOOD NOR DEMOCRATIC.

The law providing a metropolitan police system for St. Louis is a good democratic law. It was enacted by a Democratic Legislature and was signed by a Democratic Governor. Throughout all the years it has not been disturbed by the Democratic party or its representatives.

The quoted statement was made by Senator A. L. McCawley of Jasper County in opposing the bill introduced by Senator Kinney to place the police departments of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph under the control of the people of those cities. The bill was prepared by the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice after a searching study of local conditions and a national survey which showed that the so-called "metropolitan police system" had been abandoned by the large cities generally for the more efficient system of home rule.

The Kinney bill, manifestly, is the product of information painstakingly acquired, and the proposal it makes is not colored by partisan political consideration. Senator McCawley's eloquence is antiquated bombast, unilluminated by a single gleam of knowledge. So far from being "good, Democratic law," the system is neither good nor democratic. It is, as a matter of fact, a denial of the democratic fundamental of home rule. Further, the Democratic party of Missouri, in its platform of 1924, stated its opinion of the operation of this law in the following words:

We denounce the police administration in the two great cities of the State, for which the Governor is responsible, for its methods in dealing with offenders against the law, which visit upon innocent men and women the most extreme processes suggestive only of ancient Russia, and not of a free country, and at the same time let real offenders go unwhipped of justice.

That is what Mr. McCawley's Democratic party thought about the metropolitan police law five years ago, and that comment is mildly critical compared to the furious blasts which the Republican party used to deliver against this law, which it solemnly promised to repeal, when the Democrats were in power.

The simple truth is home rule was taken from St. Louis by the Democrats, for partisan political purposes, and the Republicans are now refusing to give St. Louis home rule, for the same partisan reasons.

BEEES.

Instinctively we sympathize with the 90-year-old apianist who has written Senator Phil Donnelly urging repeal of the bee inspection laws, passed two years ago. Inspection is supposed to curb bee disease, but this patriarch has handled the insects all his life and never heard of bees being diseased. Apart from that, we are against prying into the private life of bees. Practicing polyandry as they do, it is true bees have practically no morals and care nothing about benefit of clergy. But let us look at it pragmatically. As long as their shameless code does not interfere with honey production, what Savonarola among us would lead a crusade against bee morals?

We have never received a report from Missouri's bee department and are a little curious about it. Have they really been inspecting bees the last two years? And how in the world does one inspect a bee?

Which end of the bee is held while it is being inspected? To catch them for inspection, do the inspectors chase them with nets as they fly in the clover? Perhaps it is a game in which the inspector is "it." If he is able to catch the bee and get a half-Nelson on her, then she must permit herself to be inspected, provided, however, that if she can sting the inspector before he has pinioned her, she wins the game.

NOW WE ALL KNOW, OR DO WE?

We awaited Thornton Wilder's visit with breathless interest, in the hope that he would tell us what his book, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," is all about. Here is his explanation:

The idea on which "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" is based, he (Wilder) explained, is that of a pendulum which swings between these two views of life—the desire for logic and order and the necessity to confront a world which is essentially illogical.

So that's it.

WHAT A RAILROAD IS.

President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, in a brief talk to the Mississippi Valley Manufacturers and Wholesalers' Conference at the Jefferson Hotel, told them what a railroad is—or should be—and explained what the Pennsylvania is doing.

It has absorbed competing motorbus lines. It is trying out different methods in order to compete with truck lines carrying freight. It is developing the Transcontinental Air Transport for the purpose of establishing a combined train-and-plane service from coast to coast.

"A railroad," as Mr. Atterbury sees it, "is just as essential a tool as anything you have in your shop. I believe that you are not going to travel the way we want you to travel and we have got to make our service fit what you want."

That is a sound analysis of the situation, and the Pennsylvania's procedure is clearly the logical program.

It is of record, however, that a good many railroad executives failed to grasp the facts of transportation progress and to act upon them. More than one railroad head has complained of the competition of the automobile, the motorbus and the truck and has seemed to think that the Government ought to do something about it. The Pennsylvania is not trying to learn on the Government; it is depending on itself, on its ability and capacity to meet new conditions.

Improvement of service is the last thing many street car companies have thought to try in the face of diminishing business, but if just a little intelligent effort along that line will bring back only a small percentage of the riders who desire fast and comfortable mass transportation it will mean the difference between success and failure.

With three more charges to face here and two more in Chicago, it may be said that Roy C. Toombs has some charge account.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT.

Latterly spring has come to have a significance in St. Louis that it has nowhere else. It is not the augury of Belleville asparagus, the peril of flood in the Mississippi River, or the prospect of moving on May Day that makes us await spring with mingled fear and pleasure.

No, indeed. What renders us alternately apprehensive and ecstatic is the chance that Alexander the Great may be as good as ever or perform how to time and turn in his pitching glove. We are glad to report that he seems this year to be as good as he was when he stood the Yankees on their heads and won the world's championship for the Cardinals in 1926. He opened the season for the Cardinals at Cincinnati, won 5 to 2, gave five hits, and never had more than four batters face him in a single inning.

The reporters who watched him from the press stand say he had everything, that his control was perfect and that every time he strode from the field he

HE SAW THROUGH THE DISGUISE.

If Big Business Came to France

An American tourist contemplates with dismay what would happen to France if she should forfeit her point of view and individualism to adopt American methods, the fact that France has fewer bathtubs and motor cars than we have is not a point of inferiority, but only a matter of difference between the two countries.

Ernest Elmo Calkins in The Atlantic Monthly.

• THESE people are way behind us in... everything, ain't they?" observed my chauffeur, on returning Europe for the first time. In that sincere question one recognizes the American attitude toward the old civilization. Martin is typical of us in our approach to Europe—typical of us in our ideas of European peoples colored by the streams of "wops, dagoes and bohunks" that once streamed through Ellis Island and accepted menial work no self-respecting American would perform. What he meant by his comment was that everything was on a lesser scale—the motor cars smaller, the bathrooms scarcer, the breakfasts scantier, the houses lower, the elevators fewer, and the railway carriages shorter. Everything was different, foreign, unlike our own, and therefore not so good.

Martin was born and reared in New York. He is an excellent chauffeur, with a mechanic's interest in mechanical achievement, in the motor car, the airplane and the submarine, not without some response to beauty, especially natural beauty as manifested in some of the bolder aspects of the Alps and the Pyrenees, and with sincere admiration for the expertly engineered roads which carried us so comfortably through the gorges and over the coasts of famous mountain ranges. He has now been across four times, and has driven safely many thousand miles through England, France, Italy, Spain and Switzerland, and it has been interesting to watch his conversion to his contempt and condescension change to tolerance, and his tolerance to admiration, as he learned, like the rest of us, how many things the older nations do exceedingly well.

Some such education should be prescribed and made compulsory for the talkers and writers who are so sure that all Europe is a replica of our own industrial civilization. Hardly a week passes in which the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris is not addressed by some visiting vice president or sales manager, who describes in glowing terms our standardization, mass production, national distribution, advertising and promotional methods to the belligerent ranks of European business. He prescribes his own favorite remedy to a friend with a cold. This wholesale advice takes little or no account of the people to whom it is given, of their philosophy of life, age-long habits, aims and ideals. Indeed, it is inspired not by a study of the European civilization, but by close contact with our own, where such methods seemingly work to perfection. The speaker knows his system, but nothing of the people who are to apply it. It has worked well for us since material prosperity is apparently our aim—and I am casting no stones at material prosperity; it is a mighty comfortable thing. But even if one assumes that material prosperity is what the people of Europe want—and even that might be interpreted differently—they can arrive at it only by methods growing out of their ways of life. And these ways of life are the slow result of ages of living, through a long period in which communcation was limited to a degree that we cannot comprehend too long.

In the course of a recent vacation in France I amused myself by inquiring of the site of national historical significance that had been neglected too long. He made Congress to do something about it.

The site is the grave of one Samuel Wilson in a cemetery in the town of Minerva. This Samuel Wilson, says Mr. Hogg, is the man by whose sobriquet, "Uncle Sam," the United States of America is popularly designated.

He has introduced a bill authorizing appropriation of $25,000 to erect a suitable memorial.

August and Exquisite

ANGELS AND EARTHLY CREATURES. By Elinor Wylie. (Knopf).

TALK about poetry is very likely to be futile, especially in a time when there is so much confused discussion of the subject as now. False poetry remains such in spite of any din that may be raised about it, and the best thing to do is to print genuine poetry is to print it.

However, good news should be passed on, and that is the modest prose of these remarks. Elinor Wylie's last volume of verse will appear within a few days, and it may be described in two words—
August and exquisite. The poems included were chosen by the author herself the day before she died during December.

The volume opens with a sequence of 19 sonnets, entitled "One Person." Twenty miscellaneous poems complete the collection, and there is scarcely an uninspired tag in the book. Two poems rise well above the high level of the volume—"Hymn to Earth" and
"This Corruptible." Often it seems, especially in the poems just mentioned, that the author must have been aware of her approaching death and the title of one of her last lyrics, "Farewell Sweet Dust" might well have been the title of the book.

DARK STAR. By Lorna Moon.
(Bobs-Merrill).

"DARK STAR" It seems to this writer is one of the most effective pieces of prose in recent fiction. Romantic it is, with that mingling of the glamorous and the ugly that the word implies. But after the rarefied sentiment of the realistic school, Miss Moon's book unfolds with the simplicity and the uncompromising as themselves, J. E. R.

firmative. The St. Louis University team was composed of James Mc-

Interesting visitors in St. Louis for the last two days were Mrs.
May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., who in 1921, as May Sutton, won the national championship for women tennis players, and her daughter Dorothy. They visited Maryland avenue. They departed the gymnasium of the school for 300 parents. Byron W. Moser was master of ceremonies, and the after-student body is planning a little theater for the school, to be built partly by themselves. Alfred Ell-

Committee, spoke on the subject, and Franklin Miller showed a se-drawings of the building as it is to appear. Miss Anne Oliver of the Finance Committee gave a brief talk on the finances for the theater.

Funds for the new project are to be raised by the students, and proceeds from a play to be given at the school Saturday night will be the first money to accrue to the fund.

Yes, teeth lighten when you remove dangerous film

Film, too, is the source of serious tooth and gum disorders.
Dentists urge special film-removing dentifrice.

FOR years thousands thought their teeth naturally discolored and dull. Then they made a simple test that brought a glorious surprise.

Every 9 in 10 found teeth were "off color" merely because a film coat covered them. When it was removed, teeth grew white and sparkling. The special dentifrice called Pepsodent is compounded solely for that purpose.

Film—its dangers Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It is the chief cause of the commoner tooth and gum disorders. Film hardens into tartar, germs by

PITTSBURG COAL CO. CUTS PAY FROM 1.7 TO 7 PER CENT
Carnegie Also Reduces Miners' Wages to Meet Competition From West Virginia.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 18.—A wage reduction, ranging from 1.7 to more than 7 per cent, was announced today by J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh coal Co. The cut affects all miners workers. The minimum day wage for workers inside the mine was reduced from $4.72 a day to $4.46, while the minimum wage for the more skilled inside workers was cut from $5.44 to $5.04 a day. Morrow said the reduction would affect other workers in proportion, but that the exact figures were not available.

The Pittsburgh Coal Co. is one of the largest producers of bituminous coal in the country.

A wage cut of approximately 7.5 per cent by the Carnegie Coal Co. also was announced today. C. C. MacGregor, receiver for the company, said the concern was forced to take the action because competing companies in this field had reduced their scales and because of pressure in West Virginia, where, he said, wages were much lower. The minimum day wage for labor inside the mine was cut from $4.72 to $4.40, and the maximum was reduced from $5.60 to $5.04. The reductions affect all classes of mining.

COMMITTEE GETS SOVIET PROPOSAL FOR DISARMAMENT

ciples connected with disarmament. In the opinion of the great majority of the delegates, he thereby "saved the face" of Soviet Russia and showed himself a true politician.

The closing minutes of yesterday's session of the commission were chaotic and exciting. President Johnkheer, Loudon, threatened to put the Soviet project to a vote and thrice was prevented, first by Turkey, second by Germany and last by Litvinoff himself.

Embarrassing Silence.

An embarrassing silence ensued at the afternoon session when Loudon asked whether any other delegations desired to discuss the Soviet treaty draft. Hugh Gibson, American delegate, just then was entering the hall, and Loudon repeated his invitation especially for Gibson's benefit in the hope that he might break the silence. Gibson merely smiled and took his seat. Lord Cusdenham, British delegate, also remained silent.

Unequivocal opposition to the plan as Utopian and impracticable had been voiced at the forenoon session by Japan, France and Chile, whose delegates with those of Germany were the only members present.

Faced with the impasse of most delegates, Loudon ordered a short recess in the hope of somehow saving the situation, but when the meeting had been resumed everyone refused to be drawn into a declaration on the Soviet scheme.

Litvinoff then demanded the floor to make a rebuttal of arguments advanced by speakers for rejection of the plan at the morning session. He insisted that proportional reduction of armaments would not imperil the security of nations as other speakers had feared.

Replies to French Delegate.

Considering the French delegate's statement that the plan put the cart before the horse because it would fix the reduction figures now instead of at a future international conference, Litvinoff declared the Soviet Government merely was trying to unharness the horses from the cart, which was stuck fast in the mud, and put in fresh ones to draw it into the road really leading to disarmament.

After Sato of Japan had attacked the Soviet plan, pleading for concentration on more rational and progressive disarmament with perhaps a series of international conferences, Loudon said it was quite clear that the great majority of the delegates was against accepting the plan and he favored going on with the commission's original draft.

Loudon rejoined that he was unable to force any delegate to speak. He then announced that he could not tolerate the question as to whether the commission would accept the Soviet plan as a basis for discussion.

At this stage the Turkish plenipotentiary caused confusion by interjecting arguments on behalf of his country's project for disarmament and Count von Bernstorff said he could vote neither "yes" nor "no" on the Soviet plan because many parts of that draft were useful. However, he did not intend to ask the commission to change its methods.

Principles of Plan.
It was then that the Moscow commissary of foreign affairs asked for judgment of three fundamental principles. These were:

Whether the commission would express itself on the necessity of a reduction in armaments.

Whether it favored reduction on the principle of proportion.

Whether it was ready to approve a mathematical co-equal as the principle of reduction.

The general impression is that the Soviet scheme for immediate partial disarmament had been given what one Oriental delegate termed "an honorable funeral, with some floral tributes."

Remembering that only four delegations had expressed an opinion, Litvinoff accused the others of sheltering themselves behind the anonymity of the commission and demanded that every delegate shoulder his own responsibility by explaining his country's attitude.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder irritations of tea result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful with a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

HERTENSTEIN CALLED IN RYCKOFF INQUIRY

Former Efficiency Board Chairman Visited Contractor in Chicago in January.

Continuing the grand jury investigation of the bond issue litigation contract in districts B, C and D, executed by A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, Circuit Attorney Miller subpoenaed Charles Hertenstein, former chairman of the Efficiency Board at the city hall, and Arthur C. Meyers, former chief examiner of the board, to testify today. Meyers now is an engineer at Comptroller Nolte and directed a special check of some of Ryckoff's work, which received approximately $19,000 from the contractor by challenge of some of the estimates.

Hertenstein was acquainted with Ryckoff. He had conversed with him concerning his contract in 1928 and visited Ryckoff in Chicago last January.

As is known, a special survey now is being made of Ryckoff's work with a view of recovering overpayments of not less than $175,000 for the city, shown in a survey made for the Post-Dispatch as having been paid for brick sidewalk repaving not actually laid.

Three witnesses were heard in the grand jury yesterday—Comptroller Nolte and two inspectors

HERTENSTEIN CALLED IN RYCKOFF INQUIRY

Former Efficiency Board Chairman Visited Contractor in Chicago in January.

Continuing the grand jury investigation of the bond-issue lighting contract in districts B, C and D, executed by A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, Circuit Attorney Miller subpoenaed Charles Hertenstein, former chairman of the Efficiency Board at the city hall, and Arthur C. Meyers, former chief examiner of the board, to testify today.

Meyers now is an engineer for Comptroller Nolte and directed a special check of some of Ryckoff's work, which enabled the Comptroller to receive approximately $19,000 from the contractor by challenging some of the estimates.

Hertenstein was acquainted with Ryckoff. He had conversations with him concerning his contract in 1927, and visited Ryckoff in Chicago last January.

As is known, a special survey now is being made of Ryckoff's work with respect to recovering overpayments of not less than $175,000 for the city, shown in a survey made for the Post-Dispatch as having been paid for brick sidewalk repaving not actually laid.

Three witnesses were heard by the grand jury yesterday—Comptroller Nolte and two inspectors of his department, Charles Spencer and Reginald E. M. Hopkins.

Another session of the grand jury will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, when the inquiry will be resumed.

NEW YORK PUBLIC SCHOOLS CUT DOWN PUPILS' HOME STUDY

Superintendent O'Shea Orders Its Elimination in Three Grades; Bars "Monotonous Repetition" Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 18.—What may prove to be a precedent for other school systems throughout the country has been set by New York City in the curtailment, and in many cases the elimination of home work.

The new policy was announced by Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools. Dr. O'Shea's recommendations, effective immediately, provide:

Elimination of all home work in the first three years of elementary schools.

Light home study assignments for the next three years.

Only the most essential and attractive forms of home work for the upper grades.

Junior high schools to be limited to not more than an hour and a half of home work a day.

Abolition of all monotonous forms of home work.

Dr. O'Shea made it plain that he did not advise parents to aid in the work of students. He also classified as "monotonous and useless repetition" home work that involved writing a large amount of formal penmanship drills or words a number of times, or the copying from books and the analyzing of complicated sentences.

MOVIE PRODUCERS OF FRANCE INSIST ON 3 TO 1 FILM RATIO

PARIS, April 18.—The French Motion Picture Producers' Association has decided to insist on the 3 to 1 ratio recently suggested instead of the present ratio by which Americans must buy one French film for every seven sold in France.

After announcement that the French association proposed the 3 to 1 ratio, American film companies announced they would withdraw from the French market.

BROTHERS BUY 908-ACRE FARM

SALEM, Ill., April 18.—One of the largest sales of farm land in this county in many years was closed here Monday when W. O. Roddy sold for the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, executors of the estate of the widow of the late H. Lee Borden, the "show place" seven miles northwest of Salem. The property consisted of 908 acres and five large barns.

The property was sold to Charley and Harry Zoller, doing business as the Borden brothers. They have had charge of the farm since Borden died. The price paid for the estate was not made public, but it was understood to have been about $25,000.

American Girls Dine With Pasha

NEW YORK, April 18.—Emily and Catherine Everett of Brookline, Mass., are back from abroad with a story of a special dinner given them by Pasha El Ghouli of Marakech, Algiers. There were 16 courses, but no knives, forks or spoons. The girls saw none of the Pasha's 300 wives.

"This is an age of colorful and attractive merchandise; all American life is vibrant with this awakened color consciousness," said Walter G. Baumhoffer, vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago, discussing the trend of consumer demand at the Mississippi Valley Manufacturers' and Wholesalers' Conference at Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

The conference closed last night with a dinner at Hotel Chase. Before adjournment, the conference adopted a resolution to make the organization permanent under the name of the Mississippi Valley Research and Distribution Conference.

"The plain drab colors and lack of harmonious patterns have gone the way of cast iron dogs, cupola roof houses, pompadours and wire rates," Baumhoffer said. "Color and beauty are the star salesmen today."

"You remember when all fountain pens were black. Look at them now—jade green, red, orange everything but a black or somber hue. A few years ago all ivory toilet articles were white. Today that merchandise is shown in pastel shades of rose, maize and blue on pearl and amber backgrounds."

"Manet clocks, and even alarm clocks, are being brightened up. Wardrobe trunks appeared this season in maroon, gray and blue.

Demand for Color.

"In building houses today the cry is for lively colors and combinations of colors. Even the roofs are gaily colored, and inside, colors everywhere. In the kitchen-floor coverings, walls, stoves, utensils, cutlery, glassware, all have at least a touch of color. Even the plain galvanized garbage pail is passe, and the pall done in mauve, old rose, heliotrope or violet used to be the thing."

"Recently I noticed an orange-colored refrigerator with a green parrot painted on the door, and my taste is so perverted that it looked beautiful to me. A year or two ago I would have considered it an atrocity, while now, with the rest of you, I like color. I want color, and I am going to have color."

Baumhoffer told his listeners that if they wanted to "tune in on customer demand" they would have to recognize the trend to color whether they made furnaces, rubber boots, poultry netting or millinery.

Next to color, the most important trend, he declared, was public demand for new and stylish things. American life is speeding up and buyers have lost all respect for habit and tradition, he said.

The automobile and good roads, Baumhoffer declared, are the principal causes of the change. In 1912, he said, "if you wanted to merchandise a new trend, a change in fashion, a rage or a craze occurred, it was necessary to distribute that new thing to 15,000 different places. Today it becomes available almost overnight to almost the entire population.

Through the influence of the radio,

the moving picture, the magazine and the newspaper, the rural dweller has learned to demand the same quality and style as his city cousin."

William B. Stout, president of the Stout Metal Aircraft Division of the Ford Motor Co., predicted an industrial revolution in the next five years with consequent changes in the social structure, a complete change in the appearance of airplanes in the next two years, and the adoption of an international language within two more generations.

"The technical laboratory," he declared, "is the incubator in which a new civilization is being hatched. The airplane and the radio are the greatest civilizing instruments ever placed in the hand of man."

Stout declared that the language of the nation which broadcasts the best radio programs would in time become the international language.

He predicted that in five years there would be 100,000 privately-owned airplanes instead of 5000 as at present.

"Every commercial company is developing new types of planes with different metals, different engines and different materials," he said. "In two years, airplanes won't look all like they do now.

Let us look at this development of the airplane industry not as a thing to make money, but to bring the nations closer together;

to shrink these United States to one-fourth their railroad size."

How Women Choose Autos.

A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation of South

the color and style trend on the automobile.

"Women are usually influenced sion-making vote in perhaps half the sales,"

Erskine declared. "Consequently all big automobile manufacturers and body makers maintain art departments and have outside ex-advisors on style. We study the colors of nature and we get from Paris and New York the latest developments in colors and combinations."

I've been in business for a long time, and bread sales have made up a good share of my business.

Some time ago I noticed that one brand of bread was steadily outselling any kind I had ever sold before. And it wasn't the kind we used on our own table!

One night we ran out of my brand. I took home a loaf of Bond. My mother sliced some and served it for supper. Then I found out for myself why Bond outsold the rest.

It was more home-like. The firm, close-knit texture of it reminded me of the bread my mother baked for us when I was a boy. And it tasted like that bread too.

Ever since that night we have never been satisfied with anything but Bond. It never varies. It is always the same home-like loaf. And day by day more and more of my customers feel the same way we do about Bond.

NO ACTION ON WORLD COURT AT THIS SESSION

Apparent Understanding Not to Inject Root Formula for U.S. Adherence Now.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—There is an apparent understanding at the Capitol and the White House not to inject into the extra session of Congress the modified proposal for American adherence to the World Court, which was recently worked out at Geneva by Ellsworth Root and other jurists.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, one of the ardent advocates of American adherence to the Court, declared his belief that the Senate should defer consideration of the Root formula until it had been passed upon by the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations. The Assembly does not meet until September.

Opponents of the World Court already had declared against immediate action on the Root proposition and there are definite indications that President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson want time to study the new situation. It was regarded as significant at the Capitol that Mr. Hoover made no mention of the Court in his message to the extra session.

Root, who worked out a modification of the Senate reservation of rights to the court, which had never been accepted by the other world powers, returned yesterday from Geneva. He acted there as a friend of the court in writing a court protocol which would serve as a basis for an understanding between the United States and other powers.

Root is expected in Washington shortly to confer with Senate leaders and the administration. Before going to Geneva, Mr. Root conferred with Mr. Coolidge, Kellogg, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Senators Walsh and Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia.

Walsh, who was one of the sponsors of the Senate reservation which underwent revision under Root's care, declares the Root formula is satisfactory. Senator Johnson (Rep.) of California, also a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, but an opponent of the court when it was before the Senate three years ago, says the Root formula is most unsatisfactory.

The general theme of the congress, which opened Tuesday night is "Pentecost and a United Brotherhood."

CANADA NAMES POSTOFFICE AND LAKE FOR LINDBERGH

Alecock, Too, Is Honored but Authorities Decide Brown Is Too Common.

OTTAWA, April 18.—Although the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been given to a lake in the Kenora district of Ontario and the Moose postoffice, in Alberta, has been renamed "Lindbergh," neither change was made by the Governmental board, the House of Commons, which was informed in reply to a question.

Fernand Rinfray, Secretary of State, made the announcement in reply to a question by T. L. Church, Conservative, who had further asked if the "precedent" might be extended to Sir John Alecock and Sir A. W. Brown, who were the first to make a trans-Atlantic flight. The Secretary of State added that "Alecock" has been used as the name of a mountain in the Cassiar district of British Columbia.

There is a Canadian National Railway station named Lindbergh, and also one named Alecock. The latter was so named prior to the former. Rinfray said the use of the name "Brown" is not favored by any of the Government departments concerned since "there are so many existing features named Brown."

U. S.-DANISH TREATY RATIFIED.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Danish Minister, Constantin Brun, and Secretary Stimson have exchanged ratifications of a treaty of arbitration between the United States and Denmark which was signed here March 22 last year.

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the need for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic purges and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug store in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepain, is a vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepain.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colic and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepain, and if you will once start using it you will always have a bottle ready for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepain is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Industrial and Financial Briefs

NEW YORK April 18.—The recent agreement by petroleum producers to curtail output is a big move toward oil conservation and may usher in a new era of oil companies of the world.

Francis E. Powell, chairman of the Anglo-American Oil Co., was sailing for England today, to attend the United States to attend the conference called by the American Petroleum Institute.

"This initial step," he said, "should lead further and will ultimately prove of untold benefit to the petroleum industry. Certainly it will have a vast effect upon the utilization of crude oil production and will considerably aid the industry in re-establishing itself on a sound and profitable basis."

The American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports that world production of copper in March was 2,792 short tons, a record total. February's tonnage was 1,679,000, while the best previous monthly record, established last November, was 1,621,810 tons.

National Water Works Corporation has acquired five new properties in Pennsylvania. They are Reading Suburban Water Company, McKeesport Water Co., and Franklin Water Co. Armento, vice president of American & Electric Co. and of Appalachian Electric Power Co., has made a director.

NATIONAL LEAD IN 1928 EARNED $11.45

NEW YORK, April 18.—E. J. Smith, president of the National Lead Co., told stockholders at their annual meeting today that he approved the attempt of the Federal Reserve Board to prevent the unwise use of credit in stock speculation. He said he was buying preferred rather than common stock for employees under the company's partial payment plan, as he considered the common stock to be buying at too high a price to offer employees.

M. Cornish declared that he did not favor increasing the dividend on the common stock, which had been a 5% annual basis since payment of a 50 cent per share dividend in 1927. Earnings in 1928 equalled $1.145 per common share as compared to $.90 in 1927. The common stock has been currently selling around $150 a share and has sold as high as $175 a year.

"I SHOULD HAVE TAKEN KONJOLA LONG, LONG AGO"

St. Louis Man Suffered Eight Years—Recovered Remarkably Through New Medicine.

So remarkable, so unusual, are many of the recoveries brought about by Konjola, the new medicine, that were the facts not known and verified, they would challenge belief. Yet those who know, by experience with this super-remedy, are never surprised at the achievements of this unique medicine, given even against those cases that seem to defy every effort for relief. It is not at all strange that Konjola is put to the severest of tests in such cases, for Konjola is a relatively new medicine, and, naturally, it is tried after all else has failed in countless instances. How Konjola meets these grueling tests is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, St. Louis. There he is meeting personally and individually all who come to ask questions about Konjola, for as the news of Konjola's triumphs spread far and wide, everywhere it is known, people who suffer are eager to know if Konjola will do for them what it has done and is doing for others. The Konjola Man is explaining, among other properties of Konjola, how its 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs of known medicinal value—go to the very fount of the ailment, cleansing and invigorating the organs, enriching the blood stream, sweeping out the impurities and poisons and paving the way for the return of new, abundant and glorious health. Is this not hope for the suffering to be found in the experience of Mr. Albert Smythe, 2618 Butler street, this city, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I should have taken Konjola long, long ago. I tried everything else that was recommended, and I know that this remarkable medicine, had I taken it in the first place, would have saved me no end of suffering. For the past eight years I had been practically a physical wreck. My stomach and kidneys were in a dreadful condition, and no man who took medicines I took failed to get any relief. During the night my rest was disturbed at all hours because of irregular bladder actions. My back was a solid mass of aches and pains. Meals ceased to be a pleasure to me for intense suffering was sure to follow. About six weeks before starting the Konjola treatment I was on the verge of giving up my job, a hopeless wreck."

A friend, who fortunately knew all about Konjola advised that I take it without further delay. It turned out that this was the most valuable advice I ever received in my life, for Konjola transformed me from almost an invalid into a well and happy man in six weeks. It is remarkable how this master medicine of them all went to work on my case. My digestion was gradually restored, my appetite increased, began to sleep better and my nerves were greatly improved kept on steadily and when my kidneys began functioning perfectly. No one can imagine my happiness when I began to feel coming back the health that had been leaving me just as steadily for the past eight years. No words that I know are strong enough to frame this endorsement of this amazing medicine.

Konjola contains no alcohol, nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients. It is all medicine, every drop, and every drop works.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, St. Louis, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

E. ST. LOUIS DRUGGIST GETS 30-DAY SENTENCE

Manager Fined $600 at Cairo for Small Sales of Liquor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., April 18.—Completion of a Federal term of court here without a jury trial was the record established when Judge Fred L. Wham adjourned the April session yesterday after the disposal of the entire criminal docket, a total of 42 cases, during the two and a half days since court was convened Monday.

Members of the petit jury were thanked by Judge Wham in a brief talk prior to adjournment. The Court said the influence of the jurors had been no less than if they had actually heard evidence and deliberated. Their presence in the courtroom and readiness at all times to serve was a standing notice to offenders that the Government could and would give them a trial if necessary, Judge Wham said.

A university graduate, Waldo Schluter, owner of a drug store at 401 Collingsville avenue, East St. Louis, left him by his father, who had operated it for 40 years, until his death a year ago, pleaded guilty to violation of the prohibition law and was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Oscar H. Fischer, who was in active charge of the drug store, also entered a plea of guilty and was fined $600.

In a statement to the Court, District Attorney Baker said prohibition agents had made a "buy" of liquor at the drug store. The only liquor found in a subsequent search of the store was Government-temperance alcohol. Baker recommended leniency for Schluter, and particularly for Fischer, because of the good reputations of the two defendants and their high standing in the community.

Judge Wham in passing sentence censured the druggists. "You men had been trusted by the Government and permitted to possess a supply of alcohol for medical purposes," declared the Court. "You had a trust to fill. If supposedly responsible citizens violate the law what can be expected of people less favorably placed in life." Schluter was in Florida at the time the "buy" of liquor was made.

Attorney Asa Wilbourn of Cairo, who asked for mercy for the druggists, stated that only a few sausages of liquor had been made by Fischer, and only to friends. He said the supply of alcohol permitted the store by the Government had been claimed by officers showed that less than a gallon had been disposed of during a period of weeks and that a part of the one gallon had been used legally in compounding prescriptions.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING
By Dorothy Frosts

THE young lady was willing to release the gentleman from his promise of marriage, but she was not ready to give up the ring he had given her.

As an outgrowth of the ancient custom of the ring today set in a custom of its own is the acknowledgment of a betrothal. The piece of jewelry signifies the offer and acceptance of a contemplated marriage. It may be the next day or it may be the following year. It is some time in the future. After a man places a ring upon the woman's finger, he has declared his intentions. Concentration upon this one woman is expected.

It is suggestive of devotion, love, responsibility, respectability. Permanence is presumed. The man carrying out his part of the agreement will not violate his part of the sacred trust. The woman who accepts the engagement ring is admitting her contemplated unconditional surrender to her prospective husband. The bond of love, faithfulness and willingness to marry is made plain by her acceptance of the engagement ring. Wearing it now and then or not wearing it at all, does not alter the situation. There is one thought behind the engagement ring and courts interpret it only one way.

Any one stepping in between an engaged pair with the intention of destroying and abusing that sacred agreement is a violator of the law. Where the affianced pair are standing within their rights they are responsible to each other, their obligations and themselves. So long as the man is right the ring and woman are his property. As long as the woman is right, the ring and the man belong to her. A violation on the part of the man in

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

HOOTY DOESN'T DARE.

*Of great desire pray beware;
It leads to deeds that none should dare.*

—Old Mother Nature.

In the Black Shadows that lay heavily across the pond of Pad-dy Beaver, deep in the Green Forest, were many blacker shadows motionless and making no sound. Burning, hungry eyes, peering out from the shore, watched these Black Shadows and many mouths watered. The Black Shadows were more than shadows. They were great birds—the flock of Honker the Goose. So long as they remained out in the middle of Pad-dy's pond those hungry mouths would continue to water. Those Geese were quite safe from Yowler the Bobcat and Buster Bear and Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote.

But there was one pair of eyes looking down from the top of a tree. Piercing yellow eyes they were. They were the eyes of Hooty the Owl. Hooty is, you know, the Great Horned Owl, the largest of all the Owl family. There was a hungry glare in his eyes. What would make? How he longed to have one of them! Not even Yowler the Bobcat stared at them with greater longing.

It was even harder for Hooty than it was for Yowler or any of those other hungry watchers. It was harder for the reason that Hooty knew that he could fly right over to those sleeping Geese, whereas those other birds knew that the only way they could catch them was by swimming and there wasn't a chance of swimming without wakening those Geese.

"If I only dared," said Hooty to himself over and over again.

"I only dared," said Hooty to himself over and over again.

him. For a few minutes they moved about a little uneasily; then, once more, they settled themselves to sleep.

At this time Hooty knew that he did not dare attack one of those Geese. Had one of them been injured, that would have been another matter. And so he went about his hunting and Honker and his flock rested peacefully, not knowing how very near those great, cruel claws had been.

Many of the ensembles feature the coats which are extremely plain, well-cut dresses. The trimmings on the smartest coats are trimmed with cuffs of flat fur, gray shaved lamb or white caracul shaped like hour glasses and incrustated capuchin collars. A very smart note introduced in the French collections is the use of capes and capeline sleeves. These are usually of navy twill or of tweed in some light shade.

A Recipe for Today

Deviled Tuna, Serving Four

Three tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one and one-half cup milk, one cup tuna, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons chili sauce, one tablespoon finely chopped green peppers, one-half cup bread crumbs, two tablespoons butter melted.

Melt the three tablespoons of butter and add the flour. Blend and add the milk and cook until a thick creamy sauce forms. Stir frequently to prevent lumping. Add the tuna, paprika, chili sauce and green peppers. Pour into a buttered baking dish and cover with the crumbs mixed with the melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

"Ignore the moth but treat the cloth"
says the modern woman

Why try to hunt out each moth or mothworm? It is much simpler and surer to mothproof the fabrics themselves with Larvex, and prevent damage. Moth-balls, cedar-chests, tar-bags and insect-killers—these can't stop mothworms from eating your clothes. But Larvex will stop them. Because Larvex gets ahead of the moths and prevents them from eating. That is what "moth-proofing" really means.

VARIETY SHOWER

WILL you kindly tell me how to word an invitation to a variety shower which I wish to give to a friend who is to be married soon? I am planning to have the affair in the evening and it cannot be a surprise to my friend.

C. F. S.

This might suggest a form: Dear Mary—I would make me very happy if you can come to a "variety" shower that I am planning for Elizabeth Moore, at my home, on Friday evening, the first of March, at 8 o'clock. Elizabeth, too, would appreciate it to have you come—indeed, we refuse to have the party without you. So do tell me soon that me may expect you.

Best and dearest wishes to you, and the high hope of seeing you on the first. (The shower gift may be of any kind that you wish—"variety" is the word!) Affectionately yours,

LADY OFFERS HAND

WHEN leaving a friend's home, should the young man who is leaving offer his hand when saying good-by to the young lady?

JAMES.

No, the woman is given the privilege of first extending her hand. The man waits for this, whether in a greeting, a departure or an introduction.

FIVE O'CLOCK FUNCTION?

WILL you be kind enough to let me know the correct dress to be worn by guests at a 5 o'clock church wedding? H. A. B.

The women at 5 o'clock wedding wear their most formal day clothes—the fashionable ensemble is perfect—and the men wear the formal cutaway and dark striped trousers (if they dress formally), or the short black coat and striped trousers (the semiformal day attire), or, if informally, the dark blue business suit.

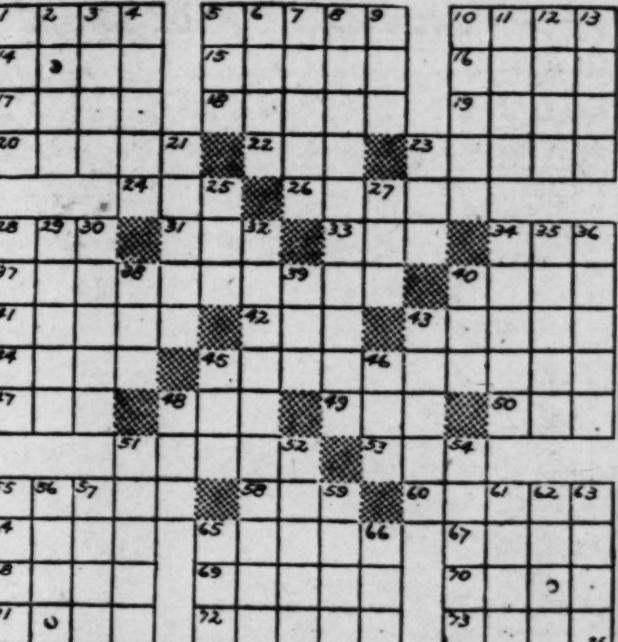

THE BAD FORM

WILL you kindly tell me how to have my wedding invitations printed? My mother and father are dead. AN ORPHAN.

It is the best form for you to have, if possible, a relative sponsor your wedding invitations. If you have, for instance, a married brother, he and his wife would act as the sponsors. Or a married sister and her husband. Or a much older, unmarried brother, if you have no married brothers or sisters older than yourself and aunt may correctly and affectionately send out your wedding invitations. If none of these is possible, you and your fiance but this is the least good form. And if you and your fiance must send out the invitations, I recommend that you do not have them engraved (wedding invitations must never be printed), but that you yourself write an informal note of invitation to your wedding.

Silk Stocking Cautions

I selecting hosiery the two factors to be considered are becomingness and service. This does not mean we must buy what is known as service weight stockings.

To be in harmony with the fine texture of the dress the stockings must be sheer, and since almost the entire stocking is visible there need be intended, so service is of great importance. So great is the demand for sheer effect that even the service and semi-service weights now assume sheerness which is produced in the beiges and grays by the same tinting similar to the flesh tone.

In buying hose it will be well to consider the following cautions:

Light colors, especially when they contrast strikingly with the dress, give a fuller effect. Grays are more slenderizing than the beiges.

Stout women should avoid dark stockings excepting in sheer effects as these give a heavy appearance which is undesirable.

If you prefer the sheerer textures it is advisable to purchase those of superior quality, especially in the dark colors, because and easier when dark stockings contract with the light ones underneath.

With dark shoes light stockings will appear more sheer. The back seam should be examined, as even a single loose stitch will mean unsatisfactory wear, and the stitches, especially at the heel, should be very close and firm.

Fruit Salads.

Fruit salads have an added food value when mixed with a honey dressing. To two tablespoonsful strained honey add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and two tablespoonsfuls of another fruit juice. Blend this well, beating with a fork until it thickens somewhat.

Wooden Wedding Gift

A wooden wedding anniversary gift was so novel the idea really seems worth passing on.

After displaying her gifts the woman picked up a paper and said, "And here is an order for a wooden gift that goes out in the mail as soon as weather permits. What is it?" After all had failed to guess she announced it was a peach tree.

A merry laugh followed the response of one girl who said, "Just now does a peach tree fit in with wood idea?" An obliging gentleman explained this, to this lady's embarrassment.

It so happened that the celebrants had acquired the home last fall and were planning to fix up the yard this spring. So they pronounced it a capital gift and such a surprise, for they never expected anything like that.

COTTON'S MANY USES IN HOME

In spite of a trend toward other textile fibers for some household articles, cotton is still the housewife's choice for a great many furnishings, according to the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. In the course of a study of the changing uses of the various textile fibers in the home, 646 replies were analyzed in respect to the household articles used in 1927 as compared with 1922.

It was found that for certain things, especially things for table use, such as doily sets, luncheon cloths, tablecloths, and napkins, linen was more popular than cotton. And for blankets and rug wool was slightly more popular than cotton or other textile fibers. But in the case of all other household articles, the families reported greater use of cotton than any other textile fiber.

The size of the community seems to make some difference in the use of certain articles used, and where a choice between linen and cotton was possible a greater proportion of them articles were used by those in towns or cities of 5,000 population or over than in rural communities. The same trend was also found in the case of income groups. With more money to spend, more household furnishings are bought, and the tendency becomes noticeable to buy more linen or silk or rayon than cotton.

In the two lowest income groups the use of cotton increased as much as or more than the use of silk or linen.

Over 10 per cent of the families reporting were using more of the following articles in 1927 than they had five years previous: Cotton bedspreads, cotton and wool blankets, cotton covers of comforters with cotton, wool and down fillings, cotton mattress covers and pads,

cotton and linen luncheon cloths, cotton and linen table napkins, cotton and linen dish towels and face towels, cotton washcloths, cotton awnings for porches and windows, cotton bureau scarfs, cotton and linen card-table covers, cotton couch covers, cotton dress covers, cotton and wool or worsted rugs, cotton and America's most popular coffee... created by patient, expert

BLENDING

BECAUSE coffee is so important, every household has its favorite way of making it. But whether your coffee is percolated, dripped, or boiled in an old-fashioned pot, one thing is above all necessary—the coffee itself must be right to start with.

The creator of the matchless, mellow flavor of Maxwell House Coffee went back to this first principle.

He was a gentleman of the Old South—bred in the South's tradition of good living—and he knew coffee. He had tried them all—the "heavy" coffees of Arabia, the mild coffees of Java, the rich and syrupy coffees of Brazil—and every one was tantalizingly not quite perfect. So he had the inspiration to make a new coffee flavor—to combine in one glorious drink the diverse virtues of many choice coffees. After months of experimenting, at last his genius triumphed in a coffee which delighted even his critical palate.

It got its first acclaim at the famous old Maxwell House in Nashville. Thence news spread abroad of the unique sparkle and flavor of Maxwell House Coffee until today it is in demand all over the United States.

"The Old Colonel," as he is known to his friends, has lived to see the coffee he perfected become his country's favorite—the choice of America's most prominent hostesses, the fine coffee served in America's foremost homes from one coast to the other.

Your own grocer has Maxwell House Coffee, sealed in tin to preserve all its fragrance and flavor.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

"BECAUSE I'm working off what I owe on a piece o' ground I bought from them on this side of the river 16 years ago. I didn't know it was their till after I'd built me a cabin on it an' moved in with my wife. Just my fool luck to pick out the only parcel of land they own on the side of the river west of a bend in the stream, if you know what I mean. You see, it was this way. The channel changed some forty-five years ago at the time of a flood. Well, they owned right up to where the old channel was—and that's how I fish an' hunt an' guide for a livin'. So I had to buy the land off them, spite of the fact it ain't on their side of the river at all. I guess they'd you call the terms easy. All I got do is fetch an' kerry the mail for four years more an' then the property is mine. The land is reckoned to be worth five hundred dollars. I'm workin' it off at the rate of $25 a year, no interest charged."

"I call that a pretty fair bargain, Mr. Regner."

"I suppose it is," said the other, gloomily. "It wasn't so bad up to the time my wife began to be poorly last winter; an' had to give up makin' the trip to Michigan and took the boat back. I never realized how hard a job it was 'till I had to do it myself. The thing I don't like about old Crownstone an' his bunch is that they won't agree to allow me pay up in cash the hundred dollars I still owe on the property and let me off 'stead of holdin' me to the bargain for another four years. That's what makes me cuss. Oh would, if you'd let me."

"So your wife has been making the trip all these years," said Barnaby, running his eye over the gaunt, powerful figure.

"Yep. She's one of the best women the Lord ever made. Or was, up to the time she took sick. Yes sir! I sent word to old Crownstone that I was ready to hand over the full amount any day he said, and would you believe it, he sent back word that the last thing in the world he wanted was my wife's money. I don't see how they could have heard about Mrs. Regner's father dyin' last fall, leavin' her a hundred and forty-seven dollars an' some odd cents in his will."

"Let's get a move on," said Barnaby abruptly, making no effort to disguise the scorn he felt for Mrs. Regner's husband.

"Sure you're rested?" inquired that person, solicitously.

"If your wife could do it twice a week, I dare say I can manage it once in a lifetime without breakin' down."

"She ain't a very big woman, either," answered Mr. Regner, starting off. "Beats all how much these women can stand."

"You mean will, don't you?"

"Besides havin' nine children, she—"

"Step along as fast as you like. I'll keep up with you," cut in the young man disgustedly.

They traversed the remaining distance in an hour and a half, by Barnaby's watch. Their progress was impeded now and then by dense thickets of underbrush; twice they crossed small creeks by means of "foot-logs," to which Gena Regner's "nose" led them with uncanny directness. It was nearly four o'clock when they emerged from the woods into a wide treeless lowland through which flowed the "left fork" according to the guide.

"Meets up with the right fork a mile or so down that way. In flood-time the whole stretch is under water. That high bank you see on the other side of the river is where their property begins."

Barnaby, trudging alongside now, stared at the great seemingly impenetrable wall of trees on the far bank. Once more he experienced a queer sinking of the heart; something like a shiver ran through his veins. It looked very formidable, repellent, defying that wall of trees. What lay beyond? What did it screen?

They came to the bank of the river, a clear, blackish stream not more than two hundred feet in width. Slow moving, deep, almost sinister in the shadow that came creeping out from the lofty green barricade on the opposite side.

Regner uttered a loud halloo. Thrice he repeated it. An answering shout, muffled by distance and the density of the wood, came to their ears. Whereupon the guide went back to a huge sigh of relaxation and began to unfasten the straps that clamped the bags on his shoulders.

"Well, if I never see you again, pardner," he said, "good-by and take care of yourself."

"Gosh," was all that Barnaby could say.

"Some folks come back this way and some don't," went on Mr. Regner. "I hope you'll be one of 'em."

"One of which?"

"That comes back," said Mr. Regner. "Every whipsplit a few young fellers and girls come out and I take 'em to Mickleback. Born and raised in there, mind you. They're on the same side of the river before in their lives. And they never come back either. Course if you're only going there to visit relatives you'll probably be ready to leave in a—There they are now. Right on time. Must be expectin' you. Generally there's only one of 'em, but there's two of 'em now, I see."

He pointed. Two men bearing a large birch canoe on their shoulders appeared almost opposite, emerging suddenly as if by magic out of the woods. Pausing at the top of the bank, they studied the pair for a few moments before moving down to the water's edge. Even then, they did not lower the boat. One of them called out:

"What is your name, young man?"

"Blades," replied Barnaby, staring as one who doubts his own eyes.

"And your mother's family name—is it?"

"Dimmesdale."

"You are most welcome, friend Jasper."

The boat slid gracefully from their shoulders into the water and one of them stepped into it, taking up paddle. The next instant he was driving the light craft along with powerful strokes, standing in the stern. His companion remained on the banks, his arms folded.

There was sheer astonishment, incredulity, in the stare that Barnaby diverted from the strangers to the face of the grinning Mr. Regner.

"Well, for the love of Pete!" he exclaimed, but in lowered tones.

At first he wondered if he was seeing a ghost; then he jumped to the conclusion that motion picture camera-men were at work near by and shot a swift exploring glance in all directions; in almost the same breath the truth burst upon him: he was looking upon the figures of men who belonged, by virtue of their dress, to the seventeenth century, to the days of the Pilgrim fathers.

Pilgrims—And a Dog's Tail.

THE man in the boat held his attention. He was a tall, bearded fellow in wide, butter-nut brown knee breeches, thick stockings of gray (but obviously of recent knitting), a "belled" brown coat buttoned close up to the throat (the buttons were large and sober), a broad flat collar of the same material above which a white stock was wound; its free ends lying flat and loose upon the hairy chest. But it was the head-covering that held his eye—a wide, flat-brimmed, conical-shaped hat of brown with a single black band held in place by a buckle of silver or nickel. His hair was long, coming down almost to his collar, and was cut square and straight across the back.

A glance at his companion was sufficient to reveal him in garments of the same pattern although the coat and breeches were a dark, somber gray. His broad low shoes of black had huge metal buckles on them. He was beardless, tall, unconsciously theatrical in his pose—a young man with a lean, dark face.

"This teller's name is Hawkins. He's the local ferryman. Never seen another teller before," explained Regner as the boat drew near the bank.

"Do they all dress like that?" demanded the yo-yo man.

"Indeed that I've ever saw," replied Mr. Regner.

The boat grounded, the prow sliding onto the low bank—an answer to a single, power' effort of the paddler. The ferryman did not step ashore nor did his offer to assist in the handling of Barnaby's effects.

"Put your things up in front there," he said. His voice was crisp, almost hard. "Pay him," he went on, indicating Regner, "and then step on yourself."

"How much?" inquired Barnaby, after his belongings were in the boat.

"Well, seein' my wife goin' to— I mean is likely to have another baby before long, I reckon about a dollar fifty would—" "One dollar is ample," broke in the man in the boat. "Pay him, friend Blades, and come along. We have no time to dally."

Barnaby took his place in the bow of the canoe, Regner pushed them off with such energy that the favored seemed born in spite, and a moment later the stalwart ferryman was swinging its head around toward the other bank. It was not until they stepped ashore that he turned his head again, a rather shy, diffident smile on his bearded lips. The other man stepped forward to steady the boat. He was eying the well dressed young New Yorker with unmistakable interest, not to say curiosity.

"We welcome you, Jasper Blades, to our own shore," said the ferryman. "My name is Samuel Hawkins. This is Peter Hodge, the son of Peter Hodge, who keeps the tavern, and the grandson of still another Peter Hodge. He will conduct you to his father's inn, where you will find fare and shelter for the present."

"Well, if I never see you again, pardner," he said, "good-by and take care of yourself."

"Gosh," was all that Barnaby could say.

"Some folks come back this way and some don't," went on Mr. Regner. "I hope you'll be one of 'em."

For the Notebook

A surprising difference in tone often can be obtained in electric sets by shifting tubes in sockets. A long lead-in is efficient in picking up noise from the various kinds of electrical equipment distributed about the house or building.

Since the modern tubes are non-microphonic, the old suggestion that the speaker be placed in a separate cabinet need no longer be followed.

The first place to look for trouble in a battery operated set is either the "A" or "B" batteries. If it is electric, look for a loose connection or examine the condenser; it may be defective.

Use a tube protector if tubes burn out frequently. The cause of this trouble is that the line voltage is too high for the safe operation of tubes.

Market Moves Upward After Period of Heaviness but Meets Profit-Taking Late in Day.

CLOSE IS FIRM ON MOST ISSUES

American Telephone and Telegraph Sells at New High — Bethlehem Steel Also Outstanding Feature

NEW YORK, April 19.—Disappointment over the drop of but $1,000,000 in brokers' loans, and pessimism over the outcome of a reparations conference, precipitated considerable weekend taking toward the close of day's stock market and turned price trends sharply irregular, although the majority of issues closed firm.

Renewed selling of the coppers was an unsettling development in late trading, Anaconda and more Cananea losing 2 and 3 points. Texaco Carpet, which broke yesterday, lost nearly 5 points more today. Allied Chemical slipped 2 and 4 points. Goodyear fell 2 points, and Woolworth, having gained 6 points to a record price, dropped 3 points to the top. Radio, after moving up 4 mounts, lost most of its gain.

Demand for Some Issues. Demand continued unabated for number of important issues, however, particularly American Telephone, which mounted three points to a record price at 225 1/2, and Pan-American B, which achieved a record price at 64 1/2 in gain. Bethlehem Steel, selling ex-dividend, reached a new high at 116 in buying in anticipation of a stock offering later in the year to retire its funded debt. Reactionary tendencies predominated in the commodity markets, but the declines were small, and futures dropped about two cents a bushel in the early trading and then recovered most of the loss. Cotton moved higher at the opening and then turned heavy in reaction of uncertainty regarding weather developments over the week-end.

Most of the leading foreign exchanges drifted lower in the early trading as a result of the unexpected break-up of the reparations conference, but later cables indicating that an agreement was still possible brought supporting orders into the market, and afternoon quotations were firm. German marks, which had dropped below 23.69 cents, rallied about 23.70, and sterling cables were in good demand around $4.83 5-16.

All money renewed at 7 1/2 per cent against 8 yesterday and appeared to be in plentiful supply at that figure. A further easing also was noted in the time money market, some of the longer dates being available as low as 8 1/4 against 8 1/2 earlier in the week and 9 per cent a week ago.

High current earnings and rumors of new stock split-ups and mergers stimulated the demand for the more popular shares. Woolworth, which recently announced a 5 for 1 split-up of the stock, ran to a new high of 100. Phillips and Julius Kayser also moved to new high ground.

A sudden demand for the New York Traction shares, which was not explainable by anything in the day's news, featured the early afternoon dealings. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, which had sunk earlier in the session to a new low for the year at 64, rallied to 66 1/2, closing at 65, a 1/4-point net gain. Third Avenue, Interboro Rapid Transit and Manhattan modified guaranteed sold 2 or more points above yesterday's final quotations, closing 1/2 to 3/4 point net higher.

Advance Rumors Advances. Expectations that the advance rumble issues would benefit from the farm relief program or Congress and the entrance of financial interests into that company brought fresh buying into both the common and preferred stocks which reached new high ground.

International telephone ran up 8 points. Stanley Co. of America 4%, and Commercial Solvents, Crosley Radio, Radio Corporation common, Collins & Aikman, Atlas Powder, Warren Bros. and America, Railay Express sold 4 to 6 points higher.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 47, 48 and 49.
